Introductory Note

The OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE is a comprehensive guide to open government law and practice in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Fifty-one outlines detail the rights of reporters and other citizens to see information and attend meetings of state and local governments.

The OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE — previously published as 'Tapping Officials' Secrets — is the sole reference on open government laws in many states.

Written to follow a standard outline to allow easy comparisons between state laws, the compendium has enabled open government advocates in one state to use arguments successful in other states to enhance access rights at home. Press associations and lobbyists have been able to invoke other sunshine laws as they seek reforms in their own.

Volunteer attorneys, expert in open government laws in each state and in Washington, D.C., generously donated their time to prepare the initial outlines for the first incarnation of this project in 1989. In most states these same attorneys or their close associates updated and rewrote the outlines for the 1993, 1997, 2001 and 2006 editions as well this current 2011 edition.

Attorneys who are new to the compendium in this edition are also experts in open government and access issues, and we are grateful to them for their willingness to share in this ongoing project to create the first and only detailed treatise on state open government law. The rich knowledge and experience all the participating attorneys bring to this project make it a success.

While most of the initial users of this compendium were journalists, we know that lawyers and citizens have discovered it and find it to be indispensable as well.

At its core, participatory democracy decries locked files and closed doors. Good citizens study their governors, challenge the decisions they make and petition or vote for change when change is needed. But no citizen can carry out these responsibilities when government is secret.

Assurances of open government exist in the common law, in the first state laws after colonization, in territorial laws in the west and even in state constitutions. All states have passed laws requiring openness, often in direct response to the scandals spawned by government secrecy. The U.S. Congress strengthened the federal Freedom of Information Act after Watergate, and many states followed suit.

States with traditionally strong access laws include Vermont, which provides virtually unfettered access on many levels; Florida, which was one of the first states to enact a sunshine law; and Ohio, whose courts have issued several access-friendly rulings. Other jurisdictions, such as Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, have made significant changes to their respective open government laws since the fifth edition was published designed to foster greater public access to information. Historically, Pennsylvania had a reputation as being relatively non-transparent while the District of Columbia was known to have a very restrictive open meetings law.

Some public officials in state and local governments work hard to achieve and enforce open government laws. The movement toward state freedom of information compliance officers reflects a growing activism for access to information in the states.

But such official disposition toward openness is exceptional. Hardly a day goes by when we don’t hear that a state or local government is trying to restrict access to records that have traditionally been public — usually because it is feared release of the records will violate someone’s “privacy” or threaten our nation’s security.

It is in this climate of tension between broad democratic mandates for openness and official preference for secrecy that reporters and good citizens need to garner their resources to ensure the passage and success of open government laws.

The Reporters Committee genuinely hopes that the OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE will help a vigorous press and citizenry to shape and achieve demands for openness, and that it will serve as a primer for those who battle in government offices and in the courts for access to records and meetings. When challenges to secrecy are successful, the news is better and so is the government.
User’s Guide

Whether you are using a guide from one state to find a specific answer to an access issue, or the complete compendium encompassing all states to survey approaches to a particular aspect of open government law around the country, knowing a few basics on how the OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE is set up will help you to get the most out of it.

Following the outline. Every state section is based on the same standard outline. The outline is divided into two parts: access to records and access to meetings.

Start by reviewing the table of contents for each state. It includes the first two tiers of that state’s outline. Once you are familiar with the structure of the outline, finding specific information is simple. Typically, the outline begins by describing the general structure of the state law, then provides detailed topical listings explaining access policies for specific kinds of records or meetings.

Every state outline follows the standard outline, but there will be some variations. Some contributors added items within the outline, or omitted subpoints found in the complete outline which were not relevant to that state’s law. Each change was made to fit the needs of a particular state’s laws and practices.

In general, outline points that appear in boldface type are part of the standard outline, while additional topics will appear in italicized type.

Whether you are using one state outline or any number of outlines, we think you will find the outline form helpful in finding specific information quickly without having to read an entire statute or search through many court cases. But when you do need to consult statutes, you will find the complete text of the relevant portions at the end of each outline.

Additional copies of individual state booklets, or of the compendium covering the 50 states and the District of Columbia, can be ordered from The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, 1101 Wilson Blvd., Suite 1100, Arlington, Virginia 22209, or by calling (703) 807-2100. The compendium is available in electronic format on CD.

The state outlines also are available on our World-Wide Web site, www.rcfp.org/ogg. The Internet version of the outlines allows you to search the database and compare the law in different states.

Updates: The Reporters Committee published new editions of THE OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE in 1989, 1993, 1997, 2001, 2006, and now in 2011. We expect future updates to follow on approximately the same schedule. If we become aware of mistakes or material omissions in this work, we will post notices on this project’s page on our World-Wide Web site, at www.rcfp.org/ogg. This does not mean that the outlines will constantly be updated on the site — it simply means known errors will be corrected there.

For our many readers who are not lawyers: This book is designed to help journalists, lawyers, and citizens understand and use state open records and meetings law. Although the guides were written by lawyers, they are designed to be useful to and readable by nonlawyers as well. However, some of the elements of legal writing may be unfamiliar to lay readers. A quick overview of some of these customs should suffice to help you over any hurdles.

Lawyers are trained to give a “legal citation” for most statements of law. The name of a court case or number of a statute may therefore be tacked on to the end of a sentence. This may look like a sentence fragment, or may leave you wondering if some information about that case was omitted. Nothing was left out; inclusion of a legal citation provides a reference to the case or statute supporting the statement and provides a shorthand method of identifying that authority, should you need to locate it.

Legal citation form also indicates where the law can be found in official reporters or other legal digests. Typically, a cite to a court case will be followed by the volume and page numbers of a legal reporter. Most state cases will be found in the state reporter, a larger regional reporter, or both. A case cite reading 123 A.2d 456 means the case could be found in the Atlantic (regional) reporter, second series, volume 123, starting at page 456.

Note that the complete citation for a case is often given only once. We have tried to eliminate as many cryptic second-reference cites as possible, but you may encounter cites like “Jackson at 321.” This means that the author is referring you to page 321 of a case cited earlier that includes the name Jackson. Authors may also use the words supra or infra to refer to a discussion of a case appearing earlier or later in the outline, respectively.

Except for these legal citation forms, most “legalese” has been avoided. We hope this will make this guide more accessible to everyone.
FOREWORD

Open Records. Kansas law on open records and open meetings is statutory. The Kansas Open Records Act, K.S.A. 45-215, et seq., (KORA) was enacted in 1984; the Kansas Open Meetings Act, K.S.A. 75-4317, et seq., (KOMA) was passed in 1972. The statutes are unrelated and do not overlap but are to be construed together. A few dozen reported decisions construing either act exist, and there is a large volume of court decisions construing both acts.

The predecessor to the current Kansas Open Records Act, K.S.A. 45-201, was enacted in 1957. The present statute became law in 1984, after having been first proposed in 1979. It is designed to be comprehensive, although no effort was made to glean all references to open or restricted access records from all Kansas statutes. Accordingly, specific provisions in other laws still control some open records exemptions. A recent study by the Revisor of Statutes located over 350 statutes that close specific types of records.

The former statute required open access only to those records "required to be kept and maintained." The few cases litigated addressed whether the record was "required to be kept, or merely was incidentally kept." Judging by the cases, public interest in open records was slight until the post-Watergate era. In the late 1970s, disputes over the meaning of the Open Records Act, which was written negatively, i.e., that all records could be closed except those required to be kept and maintained, resulted in court interpretations favoring common law although not constitutional access. Stephens v. Van Arsdale, 227 Kan. 676, 608 P.2d 972 (1980).

At the urging of the Kansas Attorney General and other interested groups and particularly the media and local government groups, the legislature began to address enacting a new statute in 1979. Initial drafts were based largely on the Kentucky law, but the final version, including its characteristic laundry list of exceptions, was hammered out in committee, making the bill virtually entirely original.

The principal reason for delay was the divisive abortion records issue. Right to Life in Kansas Inc. had requested access to Medicaid records kept by the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services identifying doctors who performed abortions, and the issue was litigated in the courts. The legislature at first grappled with this politically hot issue, then abstained from passing or even considering open records bills until the Kansas Supreme Court ruled in 1982 that the abortion records must be provided under the old law. State, ex rel. Stephens v. Harder, 230 Kan. 573, 641 P.2d 366 (1982). The KORA was passed the next year.

The overriding aim was to ensure that all records, regardless of character would be open unless specifically closed. The law contains a strong statement of public policy:

"It is declared to be the public policy of this State that public records shall be open for inspection by any person unless otherwise provided by this act, and this act shall be liberally construed and applied to promote such policy."

Since 1993, many new exceptions have been added to the list in K.S.A. 45-221(a), bringing the current total to 49. The Kansas Supreme Court has made it clear that the courts, not the agencies, interpret and enforce the law. The Kansas Attorney General has continued to interpret the law administratively in numerous opinions, and subject to one exception, has agreed to continue including the identities of victims of crimes in portions of the Standard Offense Reports open to public inspection. See Op.Att'y.Gen. 92-149 (1992) (identity of victim of sexual assault may be withheld to prevent an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy).

The history and purposes of the KORA has been exhaustively analyzed by Ted P. Frederickson in Letting the Sunshine In: An Analysis of the 1984 Kansas Open Records Act, 33 U. Kan. L. Rev. 205.

The 2000 Legislature made important changes to the law by sun-setting all of the exceptions by July 1, 2015, unless they are individually re-enacted under state policy guidelines newly set out in the statute. These standards require exceptions to be created or maintained only if:

1. The record is of a sensitive or personal nature concerning individuals;
2. It is necessary for effective and efficient administration of a governmental program; or
3. It affects confidential information.

The law also established local public information officers and enhanced enforcement procedures. The 2005 legislature postponed the sunset provisions until 2010.

Open Meetings. The first open meetings law in Kansas was enacted in 1972 and amended in 1975. Only minor amendments have occurred since then. It is founded on the basic principle that the people have a right to know the public business, and that public knowledge and information is essential to the effective functioning of the democratic process. Tacha, The Kansas Open Meeting Act; Sunshine on the Sunflower State?, 25 U. Kan. L. Rev. 169, 170. The statute contains a strong statement of legislative purpose in K.S.A. 75-4317:

"In recognition of the fact that a representative government is dependent upon an informed electorate, it is declared to be the policy of this state that meetings for the conduct of governmental affairs and the transaction of governmental business be open to the public."

Interpretation of the statute has rested largely with the Kansas Attorney General, who has, in numerous opinions, interpreted the statute liberally to effect its purpose. The Kansas Attorney General has consistently interpreted the law to require openness, and has interpreted the executive session provisions narrowly.

However, court interpretations of the statute have not been so liberal. While the Kansas Supreme Court has enforced the Act in obvious violations, it has tended to side with the governmental agencies in close cases. For example, the court has been moving even further away from the liberal interpretation of the Act in finding that a management company leasing from the county hospital board and running the hospital is not subject to the KOMA. Memorial Hospital Association Inc. v. Knutsen, 239 Kan. 663, 722 P.2d 1093 (1986). And, in State v. Sedgwick County Commissioners, 244 Kan. 536, 770 P.2d 453 (1988), the court held a public body may change its own quorum requirements to avoid the KOMA.

The courts have held that executive sessions may cover non-exempt matters if segregation is impractical, and that a consensus may be reached in executive session as long as binding action is taken in open session. State v. USD 305, 13 Kan. App. 2d 117, 764 P.2d 459 (1988); O'Hair v. USD 300, 15 Kan. App. 2d 52, 805 P.2d 40 (1990).

Because there are very few binding Supreme Court decisions interpreting the law, the KOMA is still interpreted and enforced largely by the Attorney General and the Kansas district courts, at the trial level. Both the Attorney General and the district attorneys have made effective use of consent decrees to bring agencies covered by the Act into compliance.
Open Records

I. STATUTE -- BASIC APPLICATION

A. Who can request records?

“Any person” may request records. K.S.A. 45-218. This includes the Attorney General, and county and district attorneys.

2. Purpose of request.

Public inspection refers to the right of the public to inspect governmental records when there is a laudable object to accomplish or a real and actual interest in obtaining the information. 3. Use of records.

A requester may not use lists of names or addresses obtained pursuant to KORA for purposes of selling or offering for sale property or services. A requester may not sell, give or otherwise make available to any person such information for purposes of allowing that person to use the list in the same manner. In 2003 the legislature removed the criminal penalty contained within 21-3914 and replaced it with the current civil penalty. Op.Atty.Gen. 2009-18.

B. Whose records are and are not subject to the act?

1. Executive branch.

Executive branch is subject to KORA. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(1).

2. Legislative bodies.

Legislative bodies are subject to KORA. Id.

3. Courts.

Courts are subject to KORA. Id. Judges not included; K.S.A. 45-217(f)(2)(B).

4. Nongovernmental bodies.

Includes any entity receiving or expending and supported in whole or part by public funds. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(1). Does not include entities receiving public funds in return for property, goods, or services. K.S.A. 45-217(e)(2)(a).

5. Multi-state or regional bodies.

Multistate or regional bodies are not addressed specifically, presumption is that if the group is partially or wholly funded by public money, then it is subject to KORA. K.S.A. 45-217(e)(1).

6. Advisory boards and commissions, quasi-governmental entities.

7. Others.

Not subject to the act are:

a. Records owned by a private person or entity and are not related to functions, activities, programs or operations funded by public funds. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(2).

b. Records which are made, maintained or kept by an individual who is a member of the legislature or of the governing body of any political or taxing subdivision of the state. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(2).

c. Employer records relating to the employer's individually identifiable contributions made on behalf of employees for workers' compensation, Social Security, unemployment insurance or retirement. This does not apply to employer records of lump-sum payments for contributions as described in K.S.A. 45-217(f). K.S.A. 45-217(f)(3).

d. Records of any officer or employee of the state or a political or taxing subdivision of the state if the state or subdivision does not provide the officer or employee with an office which is open to the public at least 35 hours a week. K.S.A. 45-217(e)(2)(C).

C. What records are and are not subject to the act?

1. What kind of records are covered?

Records included are those made, maintained or kept by or in possession of any public agency. This includes settlement agreements on cases of Kansas Employees Retirement System/investment of public funds as public records. However, pursuant to K.S.A. 45-221(a)(1), Kansas Public Employees Retirement System is not obligated to disclose a member's name and address. Op.Atty.Gen. 94-57 (1994). K.S.A. 45-217(f)(1). The act does not include records owned by a private person or entity which are not related in functions, activities, programs or operations funded by public money or records made, maintained or kept by members of legislature or other governing body. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(2). It also does not include employer records relating to the employer's individually identifiable contributions made on behalf of employees for workers' compensation, Social Security, unemployment insurance or retirement. However, employer records relating to lump-sum payments for contributions as described in K.S.A. 45-217(f) are disclosable. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(3). A public agency is not required to create a record or to prepare a report or conduct an investigation upon a request for information. Op.Atty.Gen. 93-126 (1993).

2. What physical form of records are covered?

Public record means any recorded information regardless of form or characteristics. K.S.A. 45-217(f)(1).

3. Are certain records available for inspection but not copying?

Agencies are not required to provide copies of radio or recording tapes or discs, video tapes or film, pictures, slides, graphics, illustrations, or similar audio or visual items or devices unless they are played or shown at a public meeting. K.S.A. 45-219(a).

D. Fee provisions or practices.

1. Levels or limitations on fees.

Fees for copies of records may not exceed the actual cost of furnishing copies, including cost of staff time. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(1). $.25/page is reasonable for copies of public records. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(5). The Kansas Department of Administration has issued a memo to attempt to standardize fees for state agencies. Although a public agency may establish subscription fees and online access fees for computerized public records, these records must also be available for a fee not exceeding the actual cost of production. Op.Atty.Gen. 95-64 (1995).

2. Particular fee specifications or provisions.

a. Search.

Fees shall include the cost of staff time required to make the information available. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(1). Presumably this means search time is included.

b. Duplication.

Actual cost. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(1).

c. Other.

Fees for electronic records shall include only use of any computer services including staff time. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(2). There is no specific cost provision for microfiche or non-print media.

A public agency “may charge.” K.S.A. 45-218(f). No specific provision for waiver. A data processor under contract with a public agency is not required to pay any charges pursuant to KORA when the sole purpose of such data processor is to develop new programs for easier access. Op.Atty.Gen. 93-132 (1993).
4. Requirements or prohibitions regarding advance payment.

5. Have agencies imposed prohibitive fees to discourage requesters?

A charge of $.25 page is deemed reasonable. Any person requesting records may appeal the reasonableness of the fees charge for providing access to or furnishing copies of such records to the Secretary of Administration whose decision shall be final. K.S.A. 45-219(c)(5).

E. Who enforces the act?

3. Commission or agency enforcement.

Any person can bring suit. District court has jurisdiction. K.S.A. 45-222

F. Are there sanctions for noncompliance?

Any agency that knowingly violates the act can be fined up to $500 for each violation. K.S.A. 45-223. Attorney fees can be awarded for the prevailing party. K.S.A. 45-222(c).

II. EXEMPTIONS AND OTHER LEGAL LIMITATIONS

A. Exemptions in the open records statute.

1. Character of exemptions.

a. General or specific?

Kansas has a laundry list exemption statute.

j. Criminal investigation records. A district court may order disclosure in an action brought under K.S.A. 45-222 (civil remedies to enforce KORA) if the court finds that disclosure: (1) is in the public interest; (2) would not interfere with any prospective law enforcement action; (3) would not reveal the identity of any confidential source or undercover agent; (4) would not reveal confidential investigation techniques or procedures not known to the general public; (5) would not endanger the life or physical safety of any person; and (6) would not reveal the name, address, phone number or any other information which specifically and individually identifies the victim of any sexual offense in Article 35 of Chapter 21 of the Kansas Statutes Annotated, and amendments thereto. 1. Who receives a request?

The custodian receives requests to inspect records. If the person who receives the request is not the custodian of the public record requested, such person shall notify the requester and shall furnish the name and location of the custodian, if known or readily ascertainable. K.S.A. 45-218(c).

2. Does the law cover oral requests?

An agency may require a written request for inspection, but shall not otherwise require a request to be made in any particular form. K.S.A. 45-220(b).

a. Arrangements to inspect & copy.

A public agency may require a person desiring to inspect public records to notify the agency not more than 24 hours prior to the hours established for inspection and obtaining copies. Such notice shall not be required to be in writing. K.S.A. 45-220(d).
b. If an oral request is denied:

(1). How does the requester memorialize the refusal?

If a request is denied, the custodian, upon request, shall provide a written statement of the grounds for denial. K.S.A. 45-218(d).

(2). Do subsequent steps need to be in writing?

The KORA does not require additional written steps; however, proof of requests may be necessary in enforcement actions under K.S.A. 45-222.

3. Contents of a written request.

a. Description of the records.

A public agency shall not require that a request contain more information than the requester’s name and address and the information necessary to ascertain the records to which the requester desires access and the requester’s right of access to the records. K.S.A. 45-220(b).

b. Need to address fee issues.

Fee issues need not be addressed. K.S.A. 45-220(b).

c. Plea for quick response.

No plea for a quick response is necessary. A request must be acted upon as soon as possible, but not later than the third business day following the date the request is received. K.S.A. 45-218(d). “As soon as possible” means without undue delay, and immediately, if circumstances make that possible. Stauffer Communications Inc. v. Hayes, District Court of Jefferson Co., No. 87 C 66 (1987).

d. Can the request be for future records?

Requests for future records is not addressed.

B. How long to wait.

1. Statutory, regulatory or court-set time limits for agency response.

The statutory time in which a request must be acted upon is as soon as possible, but not later than the third business day following the date the request is received. K.S.A. 45-218(d).

2. Informal telephone inquiry as to status.

Not addressed.

3. Is delay recognized as a denial for appeal purposes?

1. Who may sue?

2. Priority.

Suits under the act are assigned for hearing at the “earliest practicable date.” K.S.A. 45-222(e).

3. Pro se.

A party may bring the action pro se since most of the burden of showing compliance is upon the custodian and agency. However, since K.S.A. 45-222(d) allows an award of attorney fees in favor of a prevailing agency on a showing of bad faith and no reasonable basis in fact of law, legal assistance would be advisable.

4. Issues the court will address:

The court may address any issue raised “to enforce the purpose” of the Act. K.S.A. 45-222(a).

5. Pleading format.

No particular format is specified; the action is a civil suit governed by K.S.A. Chapter 60.

6. Time limit for filing suit.

There is no provision for limitation of actions under K.S.A. 45-222(a). K.S.A. 60-512 is a three-year statute of limitations for “liability created by statutes,” but depending upon the relief sought, a plaintiff should file a timely suit to avoid laches.

7. What court.

Suit is filed in District Court of any county where the records are located. K.S.A. 45-222(a).

8. Judicial remedies available.

Remedies include: injunction, mandamus or other appropriate order on application of any person. K.S.A. 45-222(a).

9. Litigation expenses.

10. Fines.

Fines are not allowable. K.S.A. 45-223.

11. Other penalties.

On an action by a prosecuting authority, a penalty up to $500 may be assessed. K.S.A. 45-223.

Interactive communications now must be open if they 1) collectively involve a majority of the members; 2) share a common topic or discussions of the agency’s affairs; 3) are intended by any or all participants to reach agreement in a matter that would require binding action. K.S.A. 75-4318(f).

K.S.A. 75-4317, et seq. However, the sending of electronic mail to other board members, standing alone, does not constitute “interactive communications” under KOMA. Op. Atty. Gen. 95-13 (1995). See also 1.D.1. above.

a. Conference calls and video/Internet conferencing.

Telephone meetings are within the definition of “meeting” in K.S.A. 75-4317a.

   None.

   (6). Penalties and remedies for failure to give adequate notice.
   Intentional violation subjects the violator to a possible civil penalty of not more than $500. Any binding action taken at any such meeting held in violation of the provisions of the Act is voidable. K.S.A. 75-4320(a).

   c. Minutes.
      (1). Information required.
      There are no requirements for minutes except as set forth in K.S.A. 75-4319(a) which requires that minutes reflect the justification for closing the meeting, the subjects to be discussed during the closed meeting, and the time and place at which the open meeting will resume. Op. Atty. Gen. 91-78.

      (2). Are minutes a public record?
      Only those minutes reflecting requirements of K.S.A. 75-4319(a) (showing justification for closing the meeting) are public, otherwise minutes of executive session are not open to public inspection. KORA, K.S.A. 45-201 et. seq.

   d. Requirement to meet in public before closing meeting.
   K.S.A. 75-4319(a) which requires that minutes reflect the reason for closing the meeting, the subjects to be discussed during the closed meeting, and the time and place that the open meeting will resume implies that an open meeting must be held prior to recessing for a closed meeting. Op. Atty. Gen. 86-33 (1986).

   e. Requirement to state statutory authority for closing meetings before closure.
   The reason for closing the meeting must be stated in the minutes. K.S.A. 75-4319(a).

   f. Tape recording requirements.
   None.

   F. Recording/broadcast of meetings.

   Yes. K.S.A. 75-4318(e) subject to reasonable rules to ensure the orderly conduct of the proceedings at such meeting.

   2. Photographic recordings allowed.
   Yes. K.S.A. 75-4318(e) subject to reasonable rules to ensure the orderly conduct of the proceedings at such meeting.

   G. Are there sanctions for noncompliance?
   Any member who knowingly violates this act is liable in an amount not to exceed $500 and any action taken is voidable. K.S.A. 75-4320.

II. EXEMPTIONS AND OTHER LEGAL LIMITATIONS
   A. Exemptions in the open meetings statute.
      1. Character of exemptions.
         a. General or specific.

         b. Mandatory or discretionary closure.
         Mandatory clause. K.S.A. 75-4318(a).

      2. Description of each exemption.
         a. As otherwise provided by state or federal law or rules of the house or senate. K.S.A. 75-4318(a).
         b. Impeachment inquiries or other impeachment matter referred to any committee of the house of representatives prior to the report of such committee to the full house of representatives. K.S.A. 75-4318(a).
         c. Meetings held in deliberation of matters relating to any administrative body acting in a quasi-judicial function. K.S.A. 75-4318(a).
B. Any other statutory requirements for closed or open meetings.

None.

C. Court mandated opening, closing.

None.

III. MEETING CATEGORIES -- OPEN OR CLOSED.

A. Adjudications by administrative bodies.

1. Deliberations closed, but not fact-finding.

K.S.A. 75-4318(a) specifically says that deliberations of quasi-judicial functions are closed. No law on fact-finding.

2. Only certain adjudications closed, i.e. under certain statutes.

All are closed. K.S.A. 75-4318(a).

B. Budget sessions.

Open to public. Op. Att. Gen. 81-39 (1981). The consensus estimating group, which makes recommendations to the legislative budget committee, is an independent group with no statutory authority or duties in the exercise of its functions. The group is not under the guidance of any state agency and does not receive any public funds. Therefore, such group is not subject to KOMA. Op. Att. Gen. 94-93 (1994).

C. Business and industry relations.

Not addressed by Kansas law.

D. Federal programs.

Not addressed by Kansas law.

E. Financial data of public bodies.

F. Financial data, trade secrets or proprietary data of private corporations and individuals.

May be discussed in closed session. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(4).

G. Gifts, trusts and honorary degrees.

Not addressed by Kansas law.

H. Grand jury testimony by public employees.

Closed unless directed otherwise by the court. K.S.A. 22-3012.

I. Licensing examinations.

Not addressed by Kansas law.

J. Litigation; pending litigation or other attorney-client privileges.

K. Negotiations and collective bargaining of public employees.

1. Any sessions regarding collective bargaining.

Collective bargaining may be discussed in a closed or executive meeting. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(3). Op. Att. Gen. 92-51

2. Only those between the public employees and the public body.

These can be closed whether or not they are in consultation with the body or agency. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(3).

L. Parole board meetings, or meetings involving parole board decisions.

These are arguably closed since the parole board performs a quasi-judicial function, but practice in Kansas has been to allow public access where requested in advance. Tacha, The Kansas Open Meeting Act; Sunshine on the Sunflower State?, 25 U. Kans. L. Rev. 169, 183 (1977).

M. Patients; discussions on individual patients.

Not addressed.

N. Personnel matters.

These may be closed to the public. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(1).

2. Disciplinary matters, performance or ethics of public employees.

3. Dismissal; considering dismissal of public employees.

These meetings may be closed to the public. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(1).

O. Real estate negotiations.

P. Security, national and/or state, of buildings, personnel or other.

This meeting type may be closed to the public. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(3).

Q. Students; discussions on individual students.

This meeting may be closed to the public unless requested by the student to be made open. K.S.A. 75-4319(b)(5).

IV. PROCEDURE FOR ASSERTING RIGHT OF ACCESS

A. When to challenge.

1. Does the law provide expedited procedure for reviewing request to attend upcoming meetings?

No procedure is specified to be used directly with the agency. Injunction or mandamus is allowed under K.S.A. 75-4320a when requests before the agency have been denied.

2. When barred from attending.

A demand to comply with the KOMA is never too late and can be made seconds before the meeting is held, unless the issue is notice of the meeting. K.S.A. 75-4318 requires that notice of a meeting be requested before it is required to be given (Note that other organizational statutes and ordinances require notice of meetings to be published without interconnection to KOMA).

3. To set aside decision.

No procedure for this is specified in the KOMA. Officials are frequently unaware of any violations of the KOMA and will cooperate when the error is presented particularly with an attorney’s demand. Calls to county or district attorneys are usually unproductive. The Kansas Attorney General will intervene, but only where the district attorney has failed or refused to act. Experience has shown private attorneys to be more successful in forcing agencies to comply. Time is critical when an attempt to set aside a decision is to be made because of the 10-day limitation of K.S.A. 75-4320(a). Binding action taken in a meeting that violates the open meetings act is voidable in an action brought by district attorney or attorney general within 21 days of the meeting. K.S.A. 75-4320.

4. For ruling on future meetings.

Experience has not shown agency officials to willingly establish and abide by guidelines for future meetings. Threatened legal action is usually required. Perceived determination of the reporter or other person seeking access is essential. Officials sometimes respond to ideological arguments for openness.

B. How to start.

1. Where to ask for ruling.
   a. Administrative forum.
   No provision.
   b. State attorney general.
   Attorney general or county and district attorneys have exclusive power to seek penalties or to void actions. K.S.A. 75-4320. Otherwise, “any person” may sue. K.S.A. 75-4320a.
   c. Court.
   Jurisdiction to enforce purposes of act vested in district court. K.S.A. 75-4320a.

2. Applicable time limits.

A demand to comply with the KOMA is never too late and can be made seconds before the meeting is held, unless the issue is notice of the meeting. K.S.A. 75-4318 requires that notice of a meeting be requested before it is required to be given (Note that other organizational statutes and ordinances require notice of meetings to be published without interconnection to KOMA).

Experience has not shown agency officials to willingly establish and abide by guidelines for future meetings. Threatened legal action is usually required. Perceived determination of the reporter or other person seeking access is essential. Officials sometimes respond to ideological arguments for openness.

3. Contents of request for ruling.

No provision.

4. How long should you wait for a response?

No provision.

5. Are subsequent or concurrent measures (formal or informal) available?

No provision.

C. Court review of administrative decision.

1. Who may sue?

The attorney general or county and district attorneys have exclusive power to seek penalties or to void actions. K.S.A. 75-4320. Otherwise, “any person” may sue. K.S.A. 75-4320a.

2. Will the court give priority to the pleading?

Yes. K.S.A. 75-4320a(e) provides that action shall take precedence over all other cases except as otherwise provided by law.

3. Pro se possibility, advisability.

A person may proceed pro se, but K.S.A. 75-4320a(d) provides for the award of costs to a defendant if an action is frivolous, not in good faith or without reasonable basis in fact or law.

4. What issues will the court address?
   a. Open the meeting.
   Yes. K.S.A. 75-4320a.
   b. Invalidate the decision.
   Yes. K.S.A. 75-4320a.
   c. Order future meetings open.
   Yes. K.S.A. 75-4320a.

5. Pleading format.

No provisions. Action governed by K.S.A. Chapter 60.

6. Time limit for filing suit.

KOMA contains no period of limitations. K.S.A. 60-514 is a one-year statute of limitation on actions for statutory penalties.

7. What court.

An action can be brought in the district court of the county “in which meeting is held.” K.S.A. 75-4320(a). K.S.A. 60-512 is a three-year statute of limitations for “liability created by statute.”

8. Judicial remedies available.

Injunction, mandamus or other appropriate order, K.S.A. 75-4320(a); civil penalties and injunction or mandamus under K.S.A. 75-4320(a).

9. Availability of court costs and attorneys’ fees.

Costs available under 75-4320a(c). No provision for attorney fees.

10. Fines.

Up to $500 per violation under K.S.A. 75-4320(a).

11. Other penalties.

None.

D. Appealing initial court decisions.

1. Appeal routes.

Appeal is to the Kansas Court of Appeals, then upon application for review (discretionary) to the Kansas Supreme Court. K.S.A. 60-2101.

2. Time limits for filing appeals.

Thirty days from final judgment. K.S.A. 60-2101(d).

3. Contact of interested amici.

Amicus briefs are allowed on application only. Sup. Ct. Rule 8.06. Amici are not permitted oral argument.

The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press often files amicus briefs in cases involving significant media law issues before a state’s highest court.

V. ASSERTING A RIGHT TO COMMENT.

There is no statutory right to comment.

If the request for access is denied, the custodian shall provide, upon request, a written statement of the grounds for denial. Such statement shall cite the specific provision of law under which access is denied and shall be furnished to the requester not later than the end of the third business day following the date that the request for the statement is received.

(e) The custodian may refuse to provide access to a public record, or to permit inspection, if a request places an unreasonable burden in producing public records or if the custodian has reason to believe that repeated requests are intended to disrupt other essential functions of the public agency. However, refusal under this subsection must be sustained by preponderance of the evidence.

(f) A public agency may charge and require advance payment of a fee for providing access to or furnishing copies of public records, subject to K.S.A. 45-219.

45-219. Abstracts or copies of records; fees.

If copies are requested, the public agency may require a written request and advance payment of the prescribed fee. A public agency shall not be required to provide copies of radio or recording tapes or discs, video tapes or films, pictures, slides, graphics, illustrations or similar audio or visual items or devices, unless such items or devices were shown or played to a public meeting of the governing body thereof, but the public agency shall not be required to provide such items or devices which are copyrighted by a person other than the public agency.

(16) Software programs for electronic data processing and documentation thereof, but each public agency shall maintain a register, open to the public, that describes:

(A) The information which the agency maintains on computer facilities; and

(B) the form in which the information can be made available using existing computer programs.

(17) Applications, financial statements and other information submitted in connection with applications for student financial assistance where financial need is a consideration for the award.

(18) Plans, designs, drawings or specifications which are prepared by a person other than an employee of a public agency or records which are the property of a private person.

(19) Well samples, logs or surveys which the state corporation commission requires to be filed by persons who have drilled or caused to be drilled, or are drilling or causing to be drilled, holes for the purpose of discovery or produc-

45-226. Local freedom of information officer.

(a) The governing body of every public agency in Kansas which maintains public records shall designate a local freedom of information officer.

The official custodian shall display or distribute or otherwise make available to the public the brochure at one or more places in the administrative offices of the governmental body where it is available to members of the public who request public information in person under this act.

(b) This section shall be a part of and supplemental to the Kansas open records act.

45-228. Investigation of alleged violations; powers.

In investigating alleged violations of the Kansas open records act, the attorney general or county or district attorney may:

(a) Subpoena witnesses, evidence, documents or other material;

(b) take testimony under oath;

(d) require attendance during such examination of documentary material and take testimony under oath or acknowledgment in respect of any such documentary material; and

(e) serve interrogatories.

45-229. Legislative review of exceptions to disclosure; continuation of sections listed.

(a) It is the intent of the legislature that exceptions to disclosure under the open records act shall be created or maintained only if:

(1) The public record is of a sensitive or personal nature concerning individuals;

(2) the public record is necessary for the effective and efficient administration of a governmental program; or

(3) the public record affects confidential information.

The maintenance or creation of an exception to disclosure must be compelled as measured by these criteria. Further, the legislature finds that the public has a right to have access to public records unless the criteria in this section for restricting such access to a public record are met and the criteria are considered during legislative review in connection with the particular exception to disclosure to be significant enough to override the strong public policy of open government. To strengthen the policy of open government, the legislature shall consider the criteria in this section before enacting an exception to disclosure.

(b) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b), all exceptions to disclosure in existence on July 1, 2000, shall expire on July 1, 2005, and any new exception to disclosure or substantial amendment of an existing exception shall expire on July 1 of the fifth year after enactment of the new exception or substantial amendment, unless the legislature acts to continue the exception. A law that enacts a new exception or substantially amends an existing exception shall state that the exception expires at the end of five years and that the exception shall be reviewed by the legislature before the scheduled date.

(c) For purposes of this section, an exception is substantially amended if the amendment expands the scope of the exception to include more records or information. An exception is not substantially amended if the amendment narrows the scope of the exception.

(d) This section is not intended to repeal an exception that has been amended following legislative review before the scheduled repeal of the exception if the exception is not substantially amended as a result of the review.

(e) In the year before the expiration of an exception, the revisor of statutes shall certify to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, by July 15, the language and statutory citation of each exception which will expire in the following year which meets the criteria of an exception as defined in this section. Any exception that is not identified and certified to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives is not subject to legislative review and shall not expire. If the revisor of statutes fails to certify an exception that the revisor subsequently determines should have been certified, the revisor shall include the exception in the following year's certification after that determination.

(f) ‘Exception’ means any provision of law which creates an exception to disclosure or limits disclosure under the open records act pursuant to K.S.A. 45-221, and amendments thereto, or pursuant to any other provision of law.

(g) A provision of law which creates or amends an exception to disclosure under the open records law shall not be subject to review and expiration under this act if such provision:

(1) Is required by federal law;

(2) applies solely to the legislature or to the state court system.

(h) (1) The legislature shall review the exception before its scheduled expiration and consider as part of the review process the following:

(A) What specific records are affected by the exception;

(B) whom does the exception uniquely affect, as opposed to the general public;

(C) what is the identifiable public purpose or goal of the exception;

(D) whether the information contained in the records may be obtained readily by alternative means and how it may be obtained;

(2) An exception may be created or maintained only if it serves an identifiable public purpose and may be no broader than is necessary to meet the public purpose it serves. An identifiable public purpose is served if the legislature finds that the purpose is sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government and cannot be accomplished without the exception and if the exception:

(A) Allows the effective and efficient administration of a governmental program, which administration would be significantly impaired without the exception;

(B) protects information of a sensitive personal nature concerning individuals, the release of which information would be defamatory to such individuals or cause unwarranted damage to the good name or reputation of such individuals or would jeopardize the safety of such individuals. Only information that would identify the individuals may be excepted under this paragraph; or

(C) protects information of a confidential nature concerning entities, including, but not limited to, a forum, pattern, device, combination of devices, or compilation of information which is used to protect or further a business advantage over those who do not know or use it, the disclosure of which information would injure the affected entity in the marketplace.

(3) Records made before the date of the expiration of an exception shall be subject to disclosure as otherwise provided by law. In deciding whether the records shall be made public, the legislature shall consider whether the damage or loss to persons or entities uniquely affected by the exception of the type specified in paragraph (2)(B) or (2)(C) of this subsection (h) would occur if the records were made public.

(i) Exceptions contained in the following statutes as certified by the revisor of statutes to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives pursuant to subsection (e) of this section on June 1, 2004, are hereby continued in existence until July 1, 2010, at which time such exceptions shall expire:

(a) Each not-for-profit entity that receives public funds in an aggregated amount of $350 or more per year shall be required to document the receipt and expenditure of such funds. Subject to the provisions of subsection (b), each not-for-profit entity which receives public funds in an aggregated amount of $350 or more per year, shall, upon request, make available to any requester a copy of documentation of the receipt and expenditure of such public funds received by such not-for-profit entity. If such not-for-profit entity’s accounting practice does not segregate public funds from other fund sources, the not-for-profit entity’s entire accounting of its expenditures and receipts shall be open to the public. The reporting requirements of this section shall commence on the first day of the fiscal year of such not-for-profit entity which occurs on or after July 1, 2005, and continue for each fiscal year thereafter.

(b) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (3), any not-for-profit entity that receives public funds that is required by law or the terms of a grant, contract or other agreement to file a written financial report which includes the receipt of public funds and the expenditure of such funds with an agency of the United States, an agency of this state or any political or taxing subdivision thereof, shall be deemed to have fulfilled the requirements of this section upon filing such report. Otherwise an itemized invoice or statement by the not-for-profit entity of the amount of public funds received and the expenditure therefor shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this section when such itemized invoice or statement is filed with an agency of the United States, an agency of this state or any political or taxing subdivision thereof, that provided the public funds to the not-for-profit entity.

(2) Any report referred to in paragraph (1) of this subsection, shall be deemed to be a public record of the agency of this state or any political or taxing subdivision thereof and subject to inspection or disclosure in accordance with the Kansas open records act.

(3) Any not-for-profit entity which receives public funds may file in the office of the secretary of state or make available for review in such not-for-profit entity’s office, a copy of the detailed audit or accounting of public funds received by such not-for-profit entity.

(c) Each not-for-profit entity may charge and require advance payment of a reasonable fee for providing access to or furnishing copies of documentation of the receipt and expenditure of public funds as required by this section. Such fee shall be determined in the same manner as for a public agency pursuant to K.S.A. 45-219 and amendments thereto. A fee for copies of documentation of the receipt and expenditure of public funds which is equal to or less than $.25 per page shall be deemed a reasonable fee.

(d) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any:

(1) Health care provider;

(2) individual person;

(3) for profit corporation; or

(4) partnership.

(e) For the purposes of this section:

(1) ‘Health care provider’ shall have the meaning ascribed to it in K.S.A. 65-4915 and amendments thereto. Health care provider shall also include any:

(A) Not-for-profit dental service corporation doing business in this state pursuant to K.S.A. 40-19a01 et seq. and amendments thereto;

(C) indigent health care clinic as such term is defined in K.S.A. 75-6102 and amendments thereto; and

(D) adult care home as such term is defined in K.S.A. 39-923 and amendments thereto.
