Introductory Note

The OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE is a comprehensive guide to open government law and practice in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Fifty-one outlines detail the rights of reporters and other citizens to see information and attend meetings of state and local governments.

The OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE — previously published as Tapping Officials’ Secrets — is the sole reference on open government laws in many states.

Written to follow a standard outline to allow easy comparisons between state laws, the compendium has enabled open government advocates in one state to use arguments successful in other states to enhance access rights at home. Press associations and lobbyists have been able to invoke other sunshine laws as they seek reforms in their own.

Volunteer attorneys, expert in open government laws in each state and in Washington, D.C., generously donated their time to prepare the initial outlines for the first incarnation of this project in 1989. In most states these same attorneys or their close associates updated and rewrote the outlines for the 1993, 1997, 2001 and 2006 editions as well this current 2011 edition.

Attorneys who are new to the compendium in this edition are also experts in open government and access issues, and we are grateful to them for their willingness to share in this ongoing project to create the first and only detailed treatise on state open government law. The rich knowledge and experience all the participating attorneys bring to this project make it a success.

While most of the initial users of this compendium were journalists, we know that lawyers and citizens have discovered it and find it to be indispensable as well.

At its core, participatory democracy decries locked files and closed doors. Good citizens study their governors, challenge the decisions they make and petition or vote for change when change is needed. But no citizen can carry out these responsibilities when government is secret.

Assurances of open government exist in the common law, in the first state laws after colonization, in territorial laws in the west and even in state constitutions. All states have passed laws requiring openness, often in direct response to the scandals spawned by government secrecy. The U.S. Congress strengthened the federal Freedom of Information Act after Watergate, and many states followed suit.

States with traditionally strong access laws include Vermont, which provides virtually unfettered access on many levels; Florida, which was one of the first states to enact a sunshine law; and Ohio, whose courts have issued several access-friendly rulings. Other jurisdictions, such as Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, have made significant changes to their respective open government laws since the fifth edition was published designed to foster greater public access to information. Historically, Pennsylvania had a reputation as being relatively non-transparent while the District of Columbia was known to have a very restrictive open meetings law.

Some public officials in state and local governments work hard to achieve and enforce open government laws. The movement toward state freedom of information compliance officers reflects a growing activism for access to information in the states.

But such official disposition toward openness is exceptional. Hardly a day goes by when we don’t hear that a state or local government is trying to restrict access to records that have traditionally been public — usually because it is feared release of the records will violate someone’s “privacy” or threaten our nation’s security.

It is in this climate of tension between broad democratic mandates for openness and official preference for secrecy that reporters and good citizens need to garner their resources to ensure the passage and success of open government laws.

The Reporters Committee genuinely hopes that the OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE will help a vigorous press and citizenry to shape and achieve demands for openness, and that it will serve as a primer for those who battle in government offices and in the courts for access to records and meetings. When challenges to secrecy are successful, the news is better and so is the government.
User’s Guide

Whether you are using a guide from one state to find a specific answer to an access issue, or the complete compendium encompassing all states to survey approaches to a particular aspect of open government law around the country, knowing a few basics on how the OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE is set up will help you to get the most out of it.

Following the outline. Every state section is based on the same standard outline. The outline is divided into two parts: access to records and access to meetings.

Start by reviewing the table of contents for each state. It includes the first two tiers of that state’s outline. Once you are familiar with the structure of the outline, finding specific information is simple. Typically, the outline begins by describing the general structure of the state law, then provides detailed topical listings explaining access policies for specific kinds of records or meetings.

Every state outline follows the standard outline, but there will be some variations. Some contributors added items within the outline, or omitted subpoints found in the complete outline which were not relevant to that state’s law. Each change was made to fit the needs of a particular state’s laws and practices.

In general, outline points that appear in boldface type are part of the standard outline, while additional topics will appear in italicized type.

Whether you are using one state outline or any number of outlines, we think you will find the outline form helpful in finding specific information quickly without having to read an entire statute or search through many court cases. But when you do need to consult statutes, you will find the complete text of the relevant portions at the end of each outline.

Additional copies of individual state booklets, or of the compendium covering the 50 states and the District of Columbia, can be ordered from The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, 1101 Wilson Blvd., Suite 1100, Arlington, Virginia 22209, or by calling (703) 807-2100. The compendium is available in electronic format on CD.

The state outlines also are available on our World-Wide Web site, www.rcfp.org/ogg. The Internet version of the outlines allows you to search the database and compare the law in different states.

Updates: The Reporters Committee published new editions of THE OPEN GOVERNMENT GUIDE in 1989, 1993, 1997, 2001, 2006, and now in 2011. We expect future updates to follow on approximately the same schedule. If we become aware of mistakes or material omissions in this work, we will post notices on this project’s page on our World-Wide Web site, at www.rcfp.org/ogg. This does not mean that the outlines will constantly be updated on the site — it simply means known errors will be corrected there.

For our many readers who are not lawyers: This book is designed to help journalists, lawyers, and citizens understand and use state open records and meetings law. Although the guides were written by lawyers, they are designed to be useful to and readable by nonlawyers as well. However, some of the elements of legal writing may be unfamiliar to lay readers. A quick overview of some of these customs should suffice to help you over any hurdles.

Lawyers are trained to give a “legal citation” for most statements of law. The name of a court case or number of a statute may therefore be tacked on to the end of a sentence. This may look like a sentence fragment, or may leave you wondering if some information about that case was omitted. Nothing was left out; inclusion of a legal citation provides a reference to the case or statute supporting the statement and provides a shorthand method of identifying that authority, should you need to locate it.

Legal citation form also indicates where the law can be found in official reporters or other legal digests. Typically, a cite to a court case will be followed by the volume and page numbers of a legal reporter. Most state cases will be found in the state reporter, a larger regional reporter, or both. A case cite reading 123 A.2d 456 means the case could be found in the Atlantic (regional) reporter, second series, volume 123, starting at page 456.

Note that the complete citation for a case is often given only once. We have tried to eliminate as many cryptic second-reference cites as possible, but you may encounter cites like “Jackson at 321.” This means that the author is referring you to page 321 of a case cited earlier that includes the name Jackson. Authors may also use the words supra or infra to refer to a discussion of a case appearing earlier or later in the outline, respectively.

Except for these legal citation forms, most “legalese” has been avoided. We hope this will make this guide more accessible to everyone.
FOREWORD

Public records. Tennessee's Public Records Act, originally passed by the legislature in 1957, mandates that governmental entities grant full access to public records to every citizen of Tennessee. The legislative policy behind the Act is enunciated in the enforcement provision that directs courts to construe the Act broadly "so as to give the fullest possible access to public records." Tennessee Code Annotated ("T.C.A.") § 10-7-505(d) (1999). The original 1957 Act provided that "[a]ll state, county and municipal records" shall be open for inspection "unless otherwise provided by law or regulations made pursuant thereto." (Emphasis added.) In 1984, the legislature amended the emphasized portion to read: "unless otherwise provided by state statutes." The Tennessee Supreme Court has construed this amendment as reserving to the legislature alone the power to make exceptions to the accessibility of public records. Memphis Publishing Co. v. Holt, 710 S.W.2d 513, 517 (Tenn. 1986). In 1991, however, the specific language was further amended to read: "unless otherwise provided by state law." The change from "state statute" to "state law" arguably broadens the means of limiting access beyond the holding in Holt to include exemptions under common law privileges. The Public Records Act continues to go through many revisions. In addition to separate statutes throughout the Tennessee Code that create new exemptions to the Act, the Act itself was subjected to at least ten different pieces of legislation between 2001 and 2004 that modified the Act.

In 2008 the Public Records Act received substantial revisions to make it more user friendly. Changes to the Act included imposing a deadline for records custodians to respond to a request, and provisions to set a reasonable price for copies of records. Also in 2008, Tennessee created the Office of Open Records Counsel, as a department of the State Controller, to assist and advise public officials and the public, including the media, with open records issues. The Open Records Counsel serves as an ombudsman that can mediate open records disputes and issue written opinions concerning open records issues. The office of Open Records Counsel, and its Advisory Committee, may also review and make comments to the General Assembly on any legislation affecting Open Meetings.

Open meetings. When the General Assembly enacted the Sunshine Law in 1974, Tennessee became the 46th state to fashion such legislation. A 1957 attempt to draft open meeting legislation died in committee. The legislature's source of authority to enact the Sunshine Law is Article 1, Section 19 of the Tennessee Constitution which provides: "That the printing presses shall be free to every person to examine the proceedings of the legislature; or of any branch or officer of the government, and no law shall ever be made to restrain the right thereof." The opening policy statement of the Tennessee Sunshine Act echoes and specifies this broad grant of the public's right to open government:

The general assembly hereby declares it to be the policy of this state that the formation of public policy and decisions is public business and shall not be conducted in secret. This part shall not be construed to limit any of the rights and privileges contained in Article I, § 19, of the constitution of the state of Tennessee. T.C.A. §§ 8-44-101(a) and (b) (1995). The broad legislative mandate that "all meetings of any governing body . . . [be] open to the public at all times, except as provided by the Tennessee Constitution," T.C.A. § 8-44-102(a) (1995), has survived vigorous constitutional challenges that the law was vague, ambiguous, unreasonable, and arbitrary and chilled free speech. Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d 888 (Tenn. 1976); Memphis Publishing Co. v. City of Memphis, 513 S.W.2d 511 (Tenn. 1974).

Thus, from its enactment, the Tennessee Sunshine Law has been construed as embodying the will of the people, speaking through their elected legislative representatives, that the benefits of open government be safeguarded through a statute that secures these benefits in broad terms. The definitional provisions of the Sunshine Law are equally sweeping. Instead of listing those government entities subject to public scrutiny, the law as enacted defines governing body to include "members of any public body which consists of two or more members, with the authority to make decisions for or recommendations to a public body on policy or administration." T.C.A. §§ 8-44-102(b)(1) (1995). This legislative history can be viewed as reflecting the lawmakers' intent that those governmental entities covered by the mandate of openness be construed expansively. Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d at 891. Unfortunately, case law establishes that the Sunshine Law does not apply to the General Assembly itself. Maybew v. Wilder, 46 S.W.3d 760 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2001).
Open Records

I. STATUTE -- BASIC APPLICATION

The Tennessee open records law (the “Act”) provides for a Tennessee citizen’s personal inspection of all state, county and municipal records, and of all records maintained by the Tennessee Performing Arts Center management corporation at all times during business hours unless the records are statutorily declared to be confidential. A public record is defined as follows:

“Public record(s)” or “state record(s)” means all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, photographs, microfilms, electronic data processing files and output, films, sound recordings or other material regardless of physical form or characteristics made or received pursuant to law or ordinance in connection with the transaction of official business by any governmental agency.

T.C.A. § 10-7-301(6), See also T.C.A. § 10-7-403 (defining “Public records within the county”). The determination of whether a document has been received “in connection with the transaction of official business” requires an examination of the totality of the circumstances. Griffin v. City of Knoxville, 821 S.W.2d 921, 924 (Tenn. 1991) (suicide notes taken into police custody are public records). Tennessee courts have had occasion to determine that certain records claimed to be exempt were in fact intended to be open: applications of those seeking the position of school superintendent, Board of Education of Memphis City Schools v. Memphis Publishing Co., 585 S.W.2d 629 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1979); payroll records of a public hospital, Cleveland Newspapers Inc. v. Bradley County Memorial Hospital Board of Directors, 621 S.W.2d 763 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1981); and closed investigative files of a police department, Memphis Publishing Co. v. Holt, 710 S.W.2d 513 (Tenn. 1986). Thirty-three categories of exceptions to the mandate of openness are contained in the Act itself under the rubric of “confidential records.” T.C.A. § 10-7-504. The legislature has enacted numerous other statutes providing that certain records be deemed confidential or closed. A 1987 survey by a special committee of the Tennessee General Assembly found that 80 other statutes either limiting or barring public access to various public records have accrued over the past 30 years since the enactment of the Public Records Act. Since that time, the General Assembly has enacted additional exemptions. There now appears to be approximately 352 exceptions to the Act. See Appendix for list of Exemptions.

A. Who can request records?

Any citizen of the state of Tennessee can request access to any records that are deemed to be records of public bodies. In 1998, the Supreme Court overturned earlier case law and held that a convicted felon is still a citizen for purposes of being able to seek access to public records. Cole v. Campbell, 968 S.W.2d 274 (Tenn. 1998) (overturning Roberson v. Roe, 17 TAM 3-28 (Tenn. Ct. App. Dec. 31, 1991) and Ray v. Stanton, C.A. No. 88-285-II (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 24, 1989)); Corporations and other entities may be citizens of Tennessee for purposes of the Act. See Curve Elementary School Parent & Teachers Org. v. Lauderdale County Sch. Bd., 608 S.W.2d 855, 859-60 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1980) (granting standing to an unincorporated association of state residents to sue under Tennessee open meetings law, which requires state citizenship to bring suit); Metropolitan Air Research Testing Authority Inc. v. The Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County, 17 TAM 31-21 (Tenn. Ct. App. July 8, 1992) (standing granted to a Tennessee corporation to sue under the open meetings law). Cf. Huntsville Util. Dist. v. Gen. Trust Co., 839 S.W.2d 397 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1992) (holding that the T.C.A. § 10-7-504 term “members of the public” does not include the courts and public officials in the performance of official duties and therefore such officials have access to confidential records that are not available to “members of the public”).

Must be a citizen of Tennessee. But see, Let v. Miner, 33 Med. L. Rptr. 1839 (D. Del. May 31, 2005) (holding similar provision in Delaware law to be unconstitutional). The special study committee of the General Assembly that proposed the 2008 revision recommended that the state citizenship requirement be eliminated, but it was retained. In 2009, the ACLU prepared a lawsuit to challenge the constitutionality of the state citizenship requirement. In the face of this potential litigation, in May, 2009, the State Attorney General reversed its position denying a journalist’s request for access to public records regarding the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. because the journalist was not a Tennessee citizen. However, the requirement for state citizenship, although likely indefensible if challenged, remains in the statute.

2. Purpose of request.

Neither the statute nor case law imposes restrictions as to the requestor’s purpose for requesting access or the use he makes of the information obtained under the open records law. See The Capital Case Resource Center of Tennessee Inc. v. Woodall, 17 TAM 8-8, p.14 (Tenn. Ct. App., Jan., 29, 1992) (“There is no statute which provides that exemption from disclosure is or may be premised on the purpose for which the citizen intends to use the requested documents”).

3. Use of records.

There is no limitation of use of public records.

B. Whose records are and are not subject to the Act?

The Act grants full access to the public of all governmental records “unless otherwise provided by state law.” T.C.A. § 10-7-503(a) (1999). Thus, no Tennessee agencies are entirely exempted from the mandate of the Act.

1. Executive branch.

Copies of any act, record, or paper in the office of the secretary of state are available to any person, “except papers relating immediately to the executive department, and, in the governor’s judgment, requiring secrecy.” T.C.A. § 8-3-104(10). All law enforcement personnel records are open, however, special rules apply when inspections are made of these records. T.C.A. § 10-7-503(e)(1). Applications of applicants for city school superintendent are subject to the Act. Board of Education of Memphis City Schools v. Memphis Publishing Co., 585 S.W.2d 629 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1979) (holding that applications of those seeking the position of superintendent of city schools in the possession of a search committee created by the board of education were public records).

a. Records of the executives themselves.

See above.

b. Records of certain but not all functions.

See above.

2. Legislative bodies.

The joint legislative services committee has sole authority to determine whether any member of the public may be permitted access to the legislative computer system in which confidential information is stored or processed. T.C.A. § 3-10-108(a). Direct access to such a computer may not be permitted unless protection of any confidential information is ensured. § 3-10-108(b). No information available in printed form may be obtained from the legislative computer system pursuant to the Open Records Act. § 3-10-108(c). A legislator’s e-mail is subject to the Act if it was made or received in connection with the transaction of official business. Op. Atty Gen. No. 05-099 (June 20, 2005).

3. Courts.

Judicial records that are exempt from the Act are: complaints of judicial disability to the Court of the Judiciary, T.C.A. § 17-5-303; proceedings involving allegations of misconduct by or the disability of an attorney; Sup. Ct. R. 9 § 25; proceedings of the court of the judiciary, Jud. Ct. R. 8; and predisposition reports of investigations and evaluations of juveniles, Juv. Proc. R. 33(e). Arguably, the separation of powers doctrine might prohibit additional judicial records from being accessible to the public. See Curve Elementary School Parent & Teachers Org. v. Lauderdale County Sch. Bd., 608 S.W.2d 855, 859-60 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1980) (granting standing to an unincorporated association of state residents to sue under Tennessee open meetings law, which requires state citizenship to bring suit); Metropolitan Air Research Testing Authority Inc. v. The Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County, 17 TAM 31-21 (Tenn. Ct. App. July 8, 1992) (standing granted to a Tennessee corporation to sue under the open meetings law). Cf. Huntsville Util. Dist. v. Gen. Trust Co., 839 S.W.2d 397 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1992) (holding that the T.C.A. § 10-7-504 term “members of the public” does not include the courts and public officials in the performance of official duties and therefore such officials have access to confidential records that are not available to “members of the public”).

The Supreme Court ruled that the documents filed with the clerk of a court are public records but that the Act does not apply to documents that were sealed subject to a protective order. See also Memphis Publishing Co. v. City of Memphis, 19 TAM 9-2 (Tenn. Feb. 22, 1994) (deposition transcripts taken during course of bankruptcy proceedings in which city was a creditor were public records and city could not claim that deposition constituted attorney work product).

4. Nongovernmental bodies.

In 2008 the Act was revised to state, “A governmental entity is prohibited from avoiding its disclosure obligations by contractually delegating its responsibility to a private entity.” T.C.A. § 10-7-503(a)(6) This amendment seems to incorporate a 2002 decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court.

a. Bodies receiving public funds or benefits.

Even before the above stated amendment, Tennessee courts construed the Act to cover the records of nongovernmental bodies in receipt of public funds and of advisory boards of quasi-governmental bodies. In Memphis Publishing v. Cherokee Children & Family Services, 87 S.W.3d 67 (Tenn. 2002), the Tennessee Supreme Court held that a “functional equivalency test” should be used to determine if the Act would apply to a private company retained by a government agency to perform governmental services. Whether a private entity operates as the functional equivalent of a government entity, so as to render its records subject to the Act, will be judged in light of the totality of the circumstances. Factors relevant to this analysis are: 1) level of government funding, 2) extent of government involvement or control, and 3) whether the entity was created by the government. However, not all records of non-government entities who assist government operation will be public. In early 2011, the Tennessee Supreme Court ruled a nonprofit foundation that merely acted as a bookkeeper, paying a university medical school facility for services the facility rendered as a public hospital and securing reimbursement from the school for payments to the facility was not the functional equivalent of a governmental agency. Gautreau v. Internal Medicine Education Foundation, Inc., 336 S.W.3d 526 (Tenn. 2011).

A private company that managed a city sports arena under a contract with a metropolitan government acted as the functional equivalent of that governmental agency, because it assumed responsibility for the day-to-day operation of the arena. Allen v. Day, 213 S.W.3d 244 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2002).

Cases addressing this issue but decided before Cherokee Children & Family Services, and therefore before the 2008 amendment, may be of questionable validity. However, these cases include: Tenant subleases of city-owned property are open records. Creative Restaurants Inc. v. Memphis, 795 S.W.2d 672 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1990) (tenant subleases of city-owned property in the possession of private, for-profit corporations that served as the city’s leasing agent are public records under the Act). But see Weber v. Boling, C.A. No. 177 (Tenn. Ct. App. December 13, 1989) (working papers of certified public accountants retained by Anderson County to conduct an audit of a department of the county government were not subject to disclosure under the Act). The payroll records of a public hospital have been held to be open under the Act. Cleveland Newspapers Inc. v. Bradley County Memorial Hospital Board of Directors, 621 S.W.2d 763 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1981), cert. denied, (Tenn. 1981) (holding that only the legislature can designate records confidential and that a hospital created by the state legislature and financed with public funds is an arm of the state carrying on a governmental function). However, employee personnel records of a hospital operated by a nonprofit corporation under a 50-year lease agreement with Shelby County are not subject to the Act. Memphis Publ’y Co. v. Health Care Corp., 799 S.W.2d 225 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1990) (reasoning that hospital that was not created by the general assembly and never claimed governmental immunity from tort actions was a private rather than governmental entity).

b. Bodies whose members include governmental officials.

Not subject to the Act, however, is this one factor courts will consider in determining if the body is the functional equivalent of government.

5. Multi-state or regional bodies.

The Act presumably does not include the records of multistate or regional bodies, however, records of such bodies might also be maintained by state offices that are subject to the Act.

6. Advisory boards and commissions, quasi-governmental entities.

7. Others.

The records of any association or nonprofit corporations established for the benefit of local governmental entities or as a municipal bond financing pool, who receive government funding amounting to at least 30 percent of their income, and who are authorized to allow their employees to participate in the state retirement system are subject to the Act. T.C.A. § 10-7-503(d)(1). See Fodness v. Newport and Cocke County, 2005 Tenn. App. LEXIS 148 (Tenn. Ct. App. Dec. 9, 2004). However, this section of this statute also allows such organization to exempt themselves from the Act if they meet certain criteria.

C. What records are and are not subject to the act?

1. What kind of records are covered?

All “state, county and municipal records” are public unless otherwise exempted. Broad categories of records legislatively mandated to be excluded from the Public Records Act include medical records of patients in state institutions, investigative files of the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation, records of students in public educational institutions, federal military and state militia records, state attorney general records, and investigative records of the internal affairs division of the department of corrections. T.C.A. § 10-7-504 (1999). Additionally, T.C.A. § 10-7-403 defines and enumerates county records that are public.

2. What physical form of records are covered?

Records covered by the Act include “all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, photographs, microfilms, electronic data processing files and output, sound recordings, or other materials regardless of physical form” made or received pursuant to law or ordinance or in connection with the transaction of official business by a governmental agency. T.C.A. § 10-7-301(6). A records custodian will be required to disclose certain information maintained in a computer database even though it does not maintain the information in the exact format in which the request has been made. The Tennessean v. Electric Power Board of Nashvill, 979 S.W.2d 297 (Tenn. 1998); See Real Estate Search System Inc. v. Baltimore, 8 TAM 5-13 (Tenn. Ct. App. December 27, 1982) (“raw data” in the form of computer printouts are available under the Act).

Only records are covered by the Act: A requester cannot demand the government agency to provide information. Shabazz v. Campbell, 63 S.W.3d 776 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2001).
3. Are certain records available for inspection but not copying?

The right to inspect public records includes the right to make copies. T.C.A. § 10-7-506(a). Therefore, all records that may be inspected should be available for copying.

D. Fee provisions or practices.

There is no charge for merely reviewing public records (electronic or otherwise) at the locations they are maintained and stored. T.C.A. §§ 10-7-123(a)(3), 10-7-503(a)(7)(A). The custodian of public records has the right to adopt and enforce reasonable rules governing the making of copies. T.C.A. § 10-7-506(a). See Op. Att’y Gen. No. 95-88, 20 TAM 48-39 (Oct. 19, 1995) (board of directors of emergency committee has authority to adopt and enforce rules governing copy making of its public records, including fees assessed and the time allowed to make them, as long as the requirements are reasonable). This includes the right to require the requestor to pay a reasonable charge for copying and delivery of the requested records. Waller v. Bryon, 16 S.W.3d 770, 773 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1999).

1. Levels or limitations on fees.

The custodian of public records of convictions of traffic violations or other offenses can charge a reasonable fee per copy to defray the costs of producing and delivering the copy or copies. T.C.A. § 10-7-507 (1995).

However, an electric power board was not permitted to charge a requester for costs, totaling $86,400, incurred in notifying customers about whom information had been requested, as it was required to do in accordance with its own privacy policy. The Tennessen v. Electric Power Board of Nashville, 979 S.W.2d 297 (Tenn. 1998).

2. Particular fee specifications or provisions.

Under T.C.A. § 8-4-604(a), the Office of Open Records Counsel was required to establish a schedule of reasonable charges for copies of Public Records (“Schedule of Charges”), and it has done so. This Schedule of Charges may be found on the Open Records Counsel’s website, www.comptroller.tn.gov/openrecords.

a. Search.

The Schedule of Charges allows a “Labor Charge” for “the time reasonably necessary to produce the requested records and includes the time spent locating, retrieving, reviewing, redacting, and reproducing the records.” There is no charge, however, for the first hour of such labor. The charge will be the hourly rate of such public employee involved in the search.

b. Duplication.

Generally, the Schedule of Charges allows $.15 for black and white copies and $.50 for color copies. Oversized documents will cost more. The records custodian may charge less. Also, the custodian may charge more if it can document its actual cost is higher.

c. Other.

If the requester can identify the records requested with specificity, he need not personally appear to have copies of the records sent to him. Waller v. Bryon, 16 S.W.3d at 773. The Schedule of Charges confirms that the records may be mailed to the requestor.

If records have “commercial value” the custodians may also charge fees to offset the cost of developing and updating the records. T.C.A. § 10-7-506. This additional cost, however, may not be charged if the requestor is the news media. T.C.A. § 10-7-506(c)(4).

The Act has no provision for either requiring or waiving fees. The Schedule of Charges permits a custodian to waive fees only pursuant to a written policy.

4. Requirements or prohibitions regarding advance payment.

There are no requirements or prohibitions regarding advance fees, and the Schedule of Charges permits this.

5. Have agencies imposed prohibitive fees to discourage requesters?

Sometimes. See The Tennessee v. Electric Power Board of Nashville, 979 S.W.2d 297 (Tenn. 1998).

E. Who enforces the act?

Individual citizens.

1. Attorney General’s role.

None. Other than to participate in any open records litigation where the constitutionality of any statute is challenged, or to represent the State when it (as opposed to local government) is the records custodian.

2. Availability of an ombudsman.

Yes. Office of the Open Records Counsel T.C.A. §§ 8-4-601 to -604.

3. Commission or agency enforcement.

None.

F. Are there sanctions for noncompliance?

Yes. The Act allows for the recovery of court costs and attorney’s fees, but only if the refusal to disclose was willful. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(g).

II. EXEMPTIONS AND OTHER LEGAL LIMITATIONS

A. Exemptions in the open records statute.

1. Character of exemptions.

a. General or specific?

Records exempted by the Tennessee Open Records Act itself are specific and are listed in 33 categories that deal with confidential records.

b. Mandatory or discretionary?

The withholding of these records is not generally left to the discretion of the custodian; rather, the withholding is mandated unless otherwise indicated.

c. Patterned after federal Freedom of Information Act?

The Tennessee Open Records Act has little resemblance to the federal Freedom of Information Act. See Schneider v. City of Jackson, 226 S.W.3d 332 (Tenn. 2007) (court noted differences and refused to apply FOIA exemption rationale to state Act).

2. Discussion of each exemption.

a. The medical records of patients in state institutions, including those containing the source of organ donations for transplantation and information concerning organ donors, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(1);

b. All investigative records of the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation and all criminal investigative files of the motor vehicle division of the department of safety, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(2). See Abernathy v. Whitney, 838 S.W.2d 211 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1992) (court of appeals upheld denial that particular parts of records constitute investigation records of the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation);

c. Records of the military department involving national or state security, including national guard personnel records and staff studies and investigations, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(3);
d. The academic, financial, and medical or psychological records of students in public educational institutions, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(4);
e. Books, records, and other materials in the possession of the attorney general's office relating to any pending or contemplated legal or administrative proceeding in which the office may be involved, including (1) records designated confidential or privileged by state law, (2) records related to federal investigations and designated confidential or privileged under federal law, (3) the work product of the attorney general or his subordinates, (4) communications to or by the attorney general covered by the attorney-client privilege, and (5) records available for public inspection in other departments and agencies, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(5);
f. Agency records containing opinions of the value of real and personal property intended to be acquired for public purposes, until acquisition is complete, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(6);
g. Sealed bids for the purchase of goods and services and leases of real property, until completion of evaluation, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(7);
h. All investigative records and reports of the internal affairs division of the department of corrections or department of youth development, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(8);
i. Official health certificates obtained and maintained by the state veterinarian, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(9);
j. The capital plans, marketing, and proprietary information and trade secrets submitted to the Tennessee venture capital network at Middle Tennessee State University, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(10);
k. Records of historical research value given or sold to public archival institutions or libraries when the owner or donor of such records wishes to place restrictions on access to the records, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(11);
l. Personal information contained in motor vehicle records which shall be open only pursuant to Title 55 of the Tennessee Code Annotated, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(12);
m. Memoranda, work notes, case files and communications related to mental health intervention techniques conducted by mental health professionals in a group setting to provide counseling and therapy to law enforcement officers, firefighters, paramedics and other emergency medical technicians, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(13);
n. Riot, escape, and emergency transport plans of county jails and workhouses or prisons, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(14);
o. A utility department's records of address, telephone number and Social Security number that might be used to locate someone who has a protection order from a court to protect such person from violence, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(15);
p. A governmental entity's records of address, telephone number and Social Security number that might be used to locate someone who has a protection order from a court to protect such person from violence, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(16);
q. The telephone number, address and any other information which might be used to locate the whereabouts of a domestic violence shelter or rape crisis center, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(17);
r. Computer programs sold, licensed or donated to the state, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(18);
s. Credit card numbers of persons doing business with the state or any subdivision, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(19);
t. The private records of any utility, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(20);
u. Records identifying structural or operational vulnerability of a utility, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(21);
v. The audit working papers of the comptroller of the treasury and state, county, and local government internal audit staffs, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(22).
"shield." See also Coats v. Smyrna/Rutherford County Airport, 2001 Tenn. App. LEXIS 911 (Tenn. App. Dec. 13, 2001) (records concerning a lien on airport property were not protected by attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine.)

C. Court-derived exclusions, common law prohibitions, recognized privileges against disclosure.

The Act has been construed as precluding courts from exempting records from public inspection. Memphis Publishing Co. v. Holt, 710 S.W.2d 513, 517 (Tenn. 1986). Arguably, however, the 1991 amendment to the statute now allows exemptions based upon common law. In Schneider v. City of Jackson, 226 S.W.3d 332 (Tenn. 2007), however, the Supreme Court refused to recognize a "law enforcement privilege" as a part of Tennessee's common law. Therefore, such records of local police departments are not exempt.

D. Are segregable portions of records containing exempt material available?

The Act does not generally address whether segregable portions of records containing exempt material are available. However, courts have approved of the redaction of confidential information from public records. Eldridge v. Putnam County, 86 S.W.3d 572, 574 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2002). This redaction might be subject to court review. Green v. Metropolitan Gov't of Nashville, 2002 Tenn. App. LEXIS 556 (Tenn. Ct. App. July 30, 2002). In The Tennessean, 979 S.W.3d at 303, the Tennessee Supreme Court noted that if redaction and deletion of confidential information was not required, a records custodian could defeat the purposes of the Act by merely inserting some confidential information in the records. This obligation to delete information is especially true with electronic records where deletion might be simple, although maybe not easy. Hickman v. Board of Probation, 2003 Tenn. App. LEXIS 187 (Tenn. Ct. App. March 4, 2003).

Moreover, several specific provisions of the Act allow for redaction. T.C.A. §§ 10-7-504(a)(20)(C), (3)(1). The Schedule of Charges acknowledges the cost of copies includes the cost of making redactions.

In 2002 the General Assembly amended the Act to address Homeland Security issues. T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(21). Generally, plans of a governmental entity for response to violence or terrorist activities are confidential, as are records exposing a structural or operational vulnerability of a utility service provider. See also T.C.A. § 10-7-503(e) (concerning terrorists incidents and weapons of mass destruction).

III. STATE LAW ON ELECTRONIC RECORDS

A. Can the requester choose a format for receiving records?

The Act has no provision for allowing the requester to choose a format to receive records. In Wells v. Warton, 2005 WL 3309651 (Tenn. Ct. App. Dec. 7, 2005), the court stated the Act “does not require a custodian of records to provide public records in a manner a citizen requests.” The custodian can choose the manner so long as it does not distort the information or inhibit access. Id.

B. Can the requester obtain a customized search of computer databases to fit particular needs?

The Act has no provision to allow a requester to obtain a customized search of computer databases to accommodate particular needs.

The Supreme Court held that if there is information that is stored on computer but not in the format desired by the requester, the agency is required to provide the information in the format requested. The Tennessean v. Electric Power Board of Nashville, 979 S.W. 2d 297 (Tenn. 1998) (electric power board was required to disclose its customer names, addresses, and telephone numbers as a public record, even though it did not have a list of only that information.). This 1998 decision probably overturns Seaton v. Johnson, 20 TAM 8-20 (Tenn. Ct. App. Jan. 27, 1995) (stating that the Act does not require that state conduct a computer search for a particular type of record).

C. Does the existence of information in electronic format affect its openness?

The existence of information in electronic format does not seem to affect its openness. See T.C.A. § 10-7-121 (providing that government records kept on computer or removable computer storage media is available for public inspection, unless it is confidential according to law); T.C.A. § 6-1-126(b)(3) (providing that adoption records maintained by electronic media are confidential and must be secured as such); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95-01, 20 TAM 4-46 (Jan. 1, 1995) (State Public Records Commission and various county public records commissions have discretion to authorize records to be stored on optical discs and destruction of such records stored in this manner would have to be in accordance with statutory requirement).

D. How is e-mail treated?

The Act has no provision specifically dealing with e-mail, except for a provision that specifies that e-mail may be a public record. T.C.A. § 10-7-512.

1. Does e-mail constitute a record?

Yes.

2. Public matter on government e-mail or government hardware

Yes. Email of public employees is subject to a case-by-case review to determine whether the record qualifies as a public record. Brennan v. Giles County, 2005 WL 1996625 (Tenn. Ct. App., Aug. 18 2005).

3. Private matter on government e-mail or government hardware

Probably not. Id. (adopting a Florida case's rationale that private or personal email is not a public record).

4. Public matter on private e-mail

Maybe. Id.

5. Private matter on private e-mail

Not likely. Id.

E. How are text messages and instant messages treated?

Text messages will likely be treated the same as email messages for purposes of public records.

1. Do text messages and/or instant messages constitute a record?

Text messages will likely be treated the same as email messages for purposes of public records.

2. Public matter message on government hardware.

See above.

3. Private matter message on government hardware.

See above.

4. Public matter message on private hardware.

See above.

5. Private matter message on private hardware.

See above.
F. How are social media postings and messages treated?

No reported cases, but if the posting could qualify as a public record, then it would not likely be exempt.

G. How are online discussion board posts treated?

No reported cases, but if the posting could qualify as a public record, then it would not likely be exempt.

H. Computer software

Computer programs sold, licensed or donated to the state are closed. T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(18)

1. Is software public?
See above.

2. Is software and/or file metadata public?
See above.

I. How are fees for electronic records assessed?

The Schedule of Charges does not address this, except to the extent there is a labor charge for searching and redacting such records.

J. Money-making schemes.

1. Revenues.

If the request is made for public records that have commercial value, agency may charge “reasonable fees for the reproduction of such record” on top of search and copying fees allowed elsewhere under the statute. The additional fees can include development costs, labor costs, and other costs, but the statute also caps the total fees at between 10 and 20 percent of those costs. See T.C.A. §§ 10-7-506(c)(1)-(3).

2. Geographic Information Systems.

This type of record is specifically mentioned in the statute that allows for “reasonable fees” on top of search and copying fees allowed by the statute. Those fees can include development costs, labor costs, and other costs, but the statute also caps the total fees at between 10 and 20 percent of those costs. See T.C.A. §§ 10-7-506(c)(1)-(3)

K. On-line dissemination.

A few government agencies have websites with some public records available from those sites.

IV. RECORD CATEGORIES -- OPEN OR CLOSED

A. Autopsy reports.

Presumably open, however, medical examiners will not release these records if they are a part of an active law enforcement investigation.

B. Administrative enforcement records (e.g., worker safety and health inspections, or accident investigations)

Several provisions close such records (especially health care provider disciplinary boards), but make no distinction between open and closed investigations. T.C.A. § 63-1-117. Also, records of TennCare investigations of fraud and abuse are confidential. T.C.A. § 71-5-2516.

1. Rules for active investigations.

No distinction between open and closed investigations.

2. Rules for closed investigations.

No distinction between open and closed investigations.

C. Bank records.

Many such records are generally closed. See generally T.C.A. § 45-2-103(a)(3)(C) (information obtained by the Commissioner of Financial Institutions when acting upon application for change of control of a bank is confidential); T.C.A. §§ 45-2-1603(a), 45-2-1713 (criminal penalty for disclosure of conditions of bank), 45-3-814, 45-7-225 (information obtained by bank examiner when examining the affairs of a bank or savings and loan is confidential); T.C.A. § 45-2-1717 (violations of banking laws reported by Commissioner of Department of Financial Institutions are confidential even when transmitted to district attorney); T.C.A. §§ 45-3-807, 45-3-814, 45-3-1308 (savings and loan associations may decline to disclose their records except under certain circumstances); T.C.A. § 45-7-117 (reports of investigation and examination conducted by Commissioner of Financial Institutions on issuers of money orders are confidential); T.C.A. § 45-7-216 (information contained in examinations, reports, applications, credit, investments, financial statements, and balance sheets is confidential).

D. Budgets.

Presumably open.

E. Business records, financial data, trade secrets.

Some such records are closed. See T.C.A. §§ 4-3-712 et seq. (proprietary information acquired by the Department of Economic and Community Development is confidential; T.C.A § 13-27-113 (information submitted to or compiled by the Tennessee Competitive Export Corporation pertaining to commercially sensitive information is confidential); T.C.A. § 45-7-216 (information contained in examinations, reports, applications, credit, investments, financial statements, and balance sheets is confidential); T.C.A. § 49-7-120 (trade secrets, patentable information, proprietary information, and commercial or financial information used in research done at state colleges and universities are closed); T.C.A. § 50-3-504, 914 (trade secrets or other privileged information disclosed to or obtained by the Department of Labor pursuant to enforcement of occupational safety and health laws are closed); T.C.A. § 50-3-2013 (information containing or revealing trade secrets obtained by the Commissioner of Labor while enforcing the Hazardous Chemical Right to Know Law is closed). However, the name and address of an owner of a business tax license on deposit with the county clerk is public record. T.C.A. § 67-1-1707(f).

A request for the identities of all licensed tobacco wholesale distributors in the state was denied because it would have resulted in disclosure of tax return information, as defined by T.C.A. § 67-1-1702. McLane v. State, 115 S.W.3d 925 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2002).

F. Contracts, proposals and bids.

G. Collective bargaining records.

Presumably open.

H. Coroners reports.

Presumably open.

I. Economic development records.

In Coleman v. Kisber, 338 S.W.3d 895 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2010) the court ruled such records of companies selected to participate in TNInvestco, an economic and job creation program, were exempt from disclosure.

J. Election records.

1. Voter registration records.

In Chattanooga Publ’g Co. v. Hamilton County, 2003 Tenn. App. LEXIS 767 (Tenn. Ct. App. May 8, 2003) the court granted a request for records of registered voters and a list of all persons who voted in a Democratic primary despite the fact that these records had been delivered to the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation after the request had been made. To hold otherwise, the court ruled would allow a records custodian to avoid the requirements of the Act by merely sending the records to the TBI, which does have an exemption for its records.
2. Voting results.

Presumably open, but see T.C.A. § 2-11-202(a)(5) (reports of election law violation investigation conducted by the Coordinator of Elections are closed).

K. Gun permits.

All TBI investigative records and records of the handgun carry permit division of the Department of Safety “relating to bogus handgun carry permits . . . issued to undercover law enforcement agents shall be treated as confidential.” T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(2). Otherwise, there is no restriction on public access to gun permits, although certain information in the application for the permit might be kept confidential by other provisions of law.

L. Hospital reports.

Generally closed. See T.C.A. § 68-11-304(c). See also T.C.A. § 68-11-210(a)(5)(C) (Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospital’s report concerning the accreditation of a hospital or nursing home is closed); T.C.A. § 68-29-107 (reports made by medical laboratories to the Commissioner of Health and Environment concerning infectious diseases are closed); T.C.A. § 68-30-111 (sources of body parts for transplantation are confidential); T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(1) (medical records of patients in state hospitals or medical facilities or receiving medical treatment at state expense are confidential).

M. Personnel records.

Open. See T.C.A. §§ 10-7-503(a) and (c)(1). There is an exception for undercover police officers. But this exemption is not to be construed as a general closure of personnel files of all police officers. Henderson v. Chattanooga, 133 S.W.3d 192 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2003) (allowing access to officers’ photographs), But see Contemporary Media v. Giles, 30 Med. L. Rptr. 2149 (Tenn. Ct. App. June 3, 2002) (denying access to photos of all newly hired deputy sheriffs).

Based on a case from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, Kallstrom v. City of Columbus, 136 F.3d 1055 (6th Cir. 1998), the Attorney General stated that § 10-7-503(c) of the Open Records Act, which requires custodians of law enforcement personnel information to allow the public to inspect it, but to obtain information regarding the person making the request for information and to notify the officer whose records have been inspected within three days, may not comply with the due process requirements of the U.S. Constitution in certain situations. This requirement applies where the custodian knows or should know that release of information could potentially threaten the personal security of a law enforcement officer. In those circumstances, the officer must receive prior notice and an opportunity to be heard. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 98-230 (December 10, 1998). In response to Kallstrom the exception for undercover officer was created, as explained in Henderson.

Open.

2. Disciplinary records.

The State’s investigation of a harassment claim against one of its employees was protected from disclosure under attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine. The Tennessean v. Tenn. Dept. of Personnel, 2007 Tenn. App. LEXIS 267 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2007).

3. Applications.

Open.

4. Personally identifying information.

Generally open, but not Social Security Numbers. T.C.A. § 4-4-125.

5. Expense reports.

Generally open.

6. Other.

Civil service tests are closed. T.C.A. § 8-30

N. Police records.

Telephone records of a drug task force are public records. Eldridge v. Putnam County, 86 S.W.3d 572 (Tenn. 2002).

1. Accident reports.

Generally open. T.C.A. § 55-10-108

2. Police blotter.

Generally open.

3. 911 tapes.

Generally open, however, frequent legislative attempts are made to close these records.

4. Investigatory records.

Closed. Tenn. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(2).

b. Rules for closed investigations.

Open. Memphis Publishing Co. v. Holt, 710 S.W.2d 513 (Tenn. 1986). However, Attorney General investigations are closed T.C.A. § 8-6-407. And so are TBI records. T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(1). And so are investigation of the department of corrections, internal affairs division. T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(8).

5. Arrest records.

Open.

Open, but see T.C.A. §§ 4-51-103, 109, 110

7. Victims.

Some are closed. T.C.A. §§ 16-20-103; 40-28-504; 40-38-110

8. Confessions.

See investigative records, above.

9. Confidential informants.

No specific provision, so provisions concerning investigations would seem to cover this.

Generally open. See Schneider v. City of Jackson, 226 S.W.2d 332 (Tenn. 2007)

11. Mug shots.

Open.

12. Sex offender records.

Presumably open.

13. Emergency medical services records.

Generally treated the same as non-emergency records, which are generally closed.

O. Prison, parole and probation reports.

Access to such records held by a private company running state prisons is limited under T.C.A. § 41-24-117, which is a part of Private Prison Contracting Act. Friedmann v. Corrections Corp. of America, 310 S.W.3d 366 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2009).

P. Public utility records.

Generally open.
Q. Real estate appraisals, negotiations.
Records related to value of real or personal property to be acquired for public purpose are closed. T.C.A. § 10-7-504 (a)(6).

1. Appraisals.
See above.

V. PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING RECORDS
A. How to start.
1. Who receives a request?
Requests for the right of personal inspection should be addressed to the official and/or designee of the official in charge of the records. If the request is not submitted to the office that is the records custodian, a latter lawsuit to obtain the records, a court will not have jurisdiction to hear the case State v. Odom, 2007 Tenn. App. LEXIS 305 (Tenn. Ct. App. April 13, 2007).

2. Does the law cover oral requests?
a. Arrangements to inspect & copy.

b. If an oral request is denied:
There is no specified procedure to follow if an oral request is denied, however, a written request would be beneficial to further the request or establish facts for judicial review.

(1). How does the requester memorialize the refusal?
See above.

(2). Do subsequent steps need to be in writing?
See above.

3. Contents of a written request.
a. Description of the records.
Written requests should be clear as to the specific records sought. If specific enough, the requester does not have to appear personally to inspect the records, but may have copies delivered to him. Jackson v. Root, 2001 Tenn. App. LEXIS 871 (Tenn. Ct. App. Nov. 26, 2001). The requester may ask for the complete file of a particular matter and, if he is unable to personally appear to select documents to be copied from that file, can have the custodian copy and deliver the entire file, so long as the requester pays for copying and delivering. Rutter v. Wells, 2004 Tenn. App. LEXIS 626 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept. 27, 2004).

b. Need to address fee issues.
Requests should contain offers to pay reasonable fees for duplication. The Act has no provision for fee waivers or advance payments. There is no evidence that agencies or other entities have imposed prohibitive fees to discourage requests.

c. Plea for quick response.
A plea for quick response may be effective, depending upon the particular records custodian.

d. Can the request be for future records?
There is no provision in the Act regarding requests for future records. Presumably, a request could be for future records, but as a practical matter, such a request could easily be overlooked, and therefore, someone seeking future records would be advised to periodically re-new the request.

B. How long to wait.
1. Statutory, regulatory or court-set time limits for agency response.
The custodian has seven business days to: 1) make the records available; 2) Deny the request in writing, or; 3) state in writing the time it will need to produce the records. T.C.A. § 10-7-503(a)(2)(B).

2. Informal telephone inquiry as to status.
Informal telephone inquiries as to the status of the request would be appropriate.

3. Is delay recognized as a denial for appeal purposes?
If the custodian fails to comply with the seven day requirement for a response, the requestor may pursue a legal action for the records. T.C.A. § 10-7-503(a)(3).

4. Any other recourse to encourage a response.
To encourage a response, the requester could communicate with the custodian to understand what records exist in an effort to narrow the search.

C. Administrative appeal.
The Tennessee Public Records Act makes no provision for administrative review of denials. Requestors might seek assistance of the state open records counsel to facilitate getting the records.
1. Time limit.
   Not applicable.

2. To whom is an appeal directed?
   Not applicable.

3. Fee issues.
   Not applicable.

4. Contents of appeal letter.
   Not applicable.

5. Waiting for a response.
   Not applicable.

6. Subsequent remedies.
   Not applicable.

D. Court action.

1. Who may sue?

   Any citizen of Tennessee may request to inspect a record and shall be entitled to request access subject to judicial review. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(a).

2. Priority.

   The Act provides for expedited hearings. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(b).

3. Pro se.

   Pro se representation is possible. The success of such pro se actions may depend upon the receptivity of the judge to such representation and how well settled the issues of law are.

4. Issues the court will address:

   - Denial.
     This will be addressed by Court.
   - Fees for records.
     This may be addressed by Court.
   - Delays.
     This may be addressed by Court.
   - Patterns for future access (declaratory judgment).

   Court is “empowered to exercise full injunctive relief and remedies.” T.C.A. § 10-7-505(d).

5. Pleading format.

   The Act denominates a pleading to obtain access to records as a petition. The petitioner should allege Tennessee citizenship. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(a). After the individual has filed a petition with the proper court, that court shall “issue an order requiring the defendant or respondent party or parties to immediately appear to show cause...why the petition should not be granted.” T.C.A. § 10-7-505(b). In the interest of expeditious hearings, a formal written response to the petition is not required, and the generally applicable periods of filing such responses do not apply. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(b). The party in charge of keeping the records bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the records sought are exempt from the Act or that there is some other justification for non-disclosure. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(c).

   The petition must allege that the custodian refused the requestor’s request to see or have copies of the records. Kersey v. Brotcher, 253 S.W.3d 625 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2007).

6. Time limit for filing suit.

7. What court.

   The petition should be filed in either the chancery or circuit court of the county in which the records are located. If the records are state records kept by a state department or agency, an individual may petition the courts of Davidson County (Nashville), the courts of the county where the records are kept, or the courts of the county of the petitioner’s residence to obtain access. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(b). But see Alcorn v. State, 20 TAM 52-59 (Tenn. Ct. App. Nov. 29, 1995) (holding that criminal court was proper place to petition for transcripts of voir dire held in that court).

8. Judicial remedies available.

   The court, upon a finding for the petitioner, shall order the records to be made available and afford the petitioner whatever additional relief is necessary “to give the fullest possible access to public records.” T.C.A. § 10-7-505(d) (1999).

9. Litigation expenses.

   a. Attorney fees.

      The Act makes an award of attorney’s fees discretionary with the court, if “the court finds that a governmental entity, or agent thereof, refusing to disclose a record knew that such record was public and willfully refused to disclose it.” T.C.A. § 10-7-505(g) (1999). This provision was added in 1988. See The Capital Care Resource Center of Tennessee v. Woodall, 17 TAM 8-8, pp. 16-18 (Tenn. Ct. App. Jan. 29, 1992) (discussing standard for award of attorneys’ fees under § 10-7-505(g)); Memphis Publishing Co. v. City of Memphis, 17 TAM 37-5 (Tenn. Ct. App. August 26, 1992) (reversing trial court’s award of attorneys’ fees under § 10-7-505(g) after the appellate court reversed the trial court’s ruling allowing access to depositions); Abernathy v. Whitley, 19 TAM 19-10 (Tenn. Ct. App. April 24, 1992) (denying attorney’s fees because the refusal of opposing attorneys to grant respondent access to records was not willful); Combined Communications Inc. v. Solid Waste Region Board, 19 TAM 19-10 (Tenn. Ct. App. April 13, 1994) (affirming award of attorney’s fees where records custodian had no legitimate basis for claiming that non-confidential letter was protected by the attorney client privilege).

      The “knowing and willfully” standard is synonymous with “bad faith.” See Black’s Law Dictionary 127 (5th ed. 1979). Contemporary Media Inc. v. City of Memphis, 1999 Tenn. App. LEXIS 298. In one case, a city’s refusal to disclose certain documents claiming that it was bound by a court order declaring confidentiality (such a defense was flawed since only the legislature can declare records to be confidential) was considered willful refusal to disclose, and therefore, attorney fees were awarded. Contemporary Media Inc. v. City of Memphis, 1999
In another case, the court did not assess attorney's fees because the city did not know that confidentiality of certain documents had been waived by its actions, and that the documents in question had become public record. Arnold v. City of Chattanooga, 19 S.W.3d 779. Attorney's fees were appropriate where a city filed a lawsuit to obtain an ex parte protective order to keep confidential a settlement agreement between the city and the widow of a police shooting victim. Tennesseean v. Lebanon, 32 Med. L. Rptr. 2304 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 13, 2004) (court found no basis for city's refusal to provide settlement agreement).

In 2008 the statute was amended to state, "In determining whether the action was willful, the court may consider any guidance provided to the records custodian by the office of open records counsel." T.C.A. § 10-7-505(g). Presumably, a court would likely find a refusal to grant access to the records willful if the open records counsel had told the custodian to grant access and the custodian failed to follow that advice.

b. Court and litigation costs.

The same willful standard for attorney's fees also applies to "all reasonable costs involved in obtaining the record." T.C.A. § 10-7-505(g).

10. Fines.

There is no provision for the imposition of fines. Before the 1985 amendments, refusal or failure to release public records for inspection was a misdemeanor; however, this criminal sanction was eliminated.

11. Other penalties.

There is no provision for other penalties in the Act; however, if a records custodian fails to obey a court order to release records, the government agency and the custodian himself might be fined for contempt of court. Moody v. Hutchison, 159 S.W.3d 15 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2005). (imposing criminal contempt penalties).

12. Settlement, pros and cons.

Given the large number of exceptions to the Act and the fact that there is little or no court interpretation for most exceptions, and given that courts sometimes interpret statutes and rules to find exceptions that were not previously understood to exist, it may be advisable to compromise open records disputes when the custodian is willing to provide some of the records requested.

E. Appealing initial court decisions.

1. Appeal routes.

Appellate review is available, as the court's decision on the petition is a final judgment on the merits. T.C.A. § 10-7-505(b).

2. Time limits for filing appeals.

The time limit for filing an appeal is within 30 days after the date of entry of the final judgment. Tenn. R. App. P. 4(a). Appeals must be made pursuant to the Tennessee Rules of Appellate Procedure, which make no distinctions for open records cases. Appeal as of right would be to the Tennessee Court of Appeals. Thereafter, permissive appeal may be made to the Tennessee Supreme Court within 30 days after the Court of Appeals' decision.

3. Contact of interested amici.

Interested amicus can apprise themselves of Open Records issues that might appear before the Tennessee Supreme Court by reviewing the decisions of the Tennessee Court of Appeals that appear in Tennessee Attorneys Memo, a weekly publication containing a synopsis of decisions of that court. Additionally, the Tennessee appellate courts have a Web site (www.tsc.state.tn.us) on which recently released opinions are available.

The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press has filed amicus briefs in cases involving significant media law issues before Tennessee's highest court. Also, the Tennessee Press Association, the Tennessee Association of Broadcasters, and the Tennessee Coalition For Open Government have participated as amici on open records cases.

F. Addressing government suits against disclosure.

The author is not aware of any lawsuits brought by the government to prevent disclosure.
Open Meetings

I. STATUTE -- BASIC APPLICATION.

The Tennessee Open Meetings Law (the “Act”) requires that all meetings of any governing body be open to the public at all times, except as provided by the Tennessee Constitution. The Open Meetings Act does not prescribe when governing bodies must conduct meetings. Instead, it defines when meetings must be open to the public. Griffin v. Traugber, 1996 Tenn. App. LEXIS 382, * 15.

A. Who may attend?

Any person may attend any open meeting that any governing body conducts. See T.C.A. § 8-44-102(a) (meetings open to “the public”).

B. What governments are subject to the law?

All governing bodies — state, county, and local — are required to hold open meetings. See T.C.A. § 8-44-102(a); City of Hendersonville v. City of Goodlettsville, 19 TAM 32-5 (Tenn. Ct. App. July 13, 1994) (City violated Act by not conducting public meeting, but the purpose of the Act was served when the decision to purchase property was ratified at a public meeting).

1. State.

State governing bodies are subject to the law. However, the Act does not apply to the Tennessee General Assembly. Maybey v. Wilder, 46 S.W.3d 760 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2001).

2. County.

County governing bodies are subject to the law.

3. Local or municipal.

Local or municipal governing bodies are subject to the law.

C. What bodies are covered by the law?

The Act applies to any member of any governing body. “Governing body” is defined as “members of any public body which consists of two (2) or more members, with the authority to make decisions for or recommendations to a public body on policy or administration and also means a community action agency which administers community action programs under the provisions of 42 U.S.C. § 2790.” T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b). Specifically excluded from the ambit of “governing body” are administrative officers who do not formulate policies for a governing body. Fain v. Faculty of the College of Law of the University of Tennessee, 552 S.W.2d 752 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1977) (holding that law school dean was not a governing body and faculty and committee meetings of law school were not subject to the Act); Mid-South Publishing Co. v. The Tennessee State University, 1990 WL 207410 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1990) (holding that university chancellor was not a governing body and that his meetings with advisory committee were not subject to the Act).

The Act does not define the term “member.” According to an Attorney General opinion, an individual becomes a member of a governing body when he or she has completed all the requirements necessary to qualify to perform the official duties of a member and his or her term of office has begun. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-043 (Feb. 25, 1998). More specifically, in the case of an elected official, the electee is not qualified to serve until his or her term has begun and he or she has taken the oath of office. Id. (holding that meetings of the Memphis Center City Development Corporation are subject to the Act). A governing body also specifically includes any nonprofit corporation authorized by state law to act on behalf of any local government other than Nashville for the purpose of Resource Recovery and Solid Waste Disposal or Energy Production Facilities. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(1)(C).

Also, the Act provides that it applies to the board of directors of any non-profit corporation that provides Nashville with heat, steam or incineration of refuse, T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(1)(D), or the board of directors of any non-profit corporation or association authorized to obtain coverage for government employees in the Tennessee consolidated retirement system. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(1)(E).

1. Executive branch agencies.

Covered by the Act. The term governing body has been construed to include “any board, commission, committee, agency, authority or any other body, by whatever name, whose origin and whose members have authority to make decisions or recommendations on policy or administration affecting the conduct of the business of the people in the governmental sector.” Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d at 892. The Act applies to administrative agency proceedings. L. Harold Levinson, Contested Cases Under the Tennessee Uniform Procedures Act, 6 Mem. St. U. L. Rev. 215, 234 (1976).

a. What officials are covered?

See above.

b. Are certain executive functions covered?

See above.

c. Are only certain agencies subject to the act?

See above.

2. Legislative bodies.

3. Courts.

It does not seem that a court would be a public body or a governing body as those terms are used in the Act. Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d 888, 892 (Tenn. 1976). Access to courts in Tennessee is governed by the state and U.S. Constitutions. Tennessee v. Drake, 701 S.W.2d 604 (1985).

4. Nongovernmental bodies receiving public funds or benefits.

The board of directors of any non-profit corporation that contracts with a state agency to receive community grant funds that comprise at least 30 percent of the corporation’s annual income are “governing bodies” under the Act. However, such board of directors meetings are exempt from the Act if called “solely to discuss matters involving confidential doctor-patient relationships, personnel matters or matters required to be kept confidential by federal or state [laws or regulations].” T.C.A. § 8-44-102(B).

5. Nongovernmental groups whose members include governmental officials.

Not covered by the Act.

6. Multi-state or regional bodies.

No authority has addressed whether the Tennessee Act covers multistate or regional bodies.

7. Advisory boards and commissions, quasi-governmental entities.

Covered by the Act. Forbes v. Wilson County Emergency Communications Dist., 966 S.W.2d 417 (Tenn. 1998) (Personnel Policy Committee of County Emergency Communications District 911 Board was subject to Act); See Richard L. Hollow & Rudolph L. Ennis, Tennessee Sunshine: The People’s Business Goes Public, 42 Tenn. L. Rev. 527, 538 (1975) (citing legislative history that gives a broad reading to the term “public body” but does not indicate any specific bodies); see also Op. Att’y Gen. No. 94-77, 19 TAM 31-29 (July 8, 1994) (partisan caucuses... given authority to make recommendations to or decisions for county legislative bodies are subject to Open Meetings Act); but see Perdue v. Quorum Health Resources Inc., 934 F. Supp. 919 (M.D. Tenn. 1996) (no violation of act where City Hospital Board of Trustees did not meet to consider termination of employee of a private company that provided management services to the hospital).

8. Other bodies to which governmental or public functions are delegated.

Covered by the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b) (1995). See also Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d 888, 892 (Tenn. 1976) (involving local board of education); Metropolitan Air Research Testing Authority Inc. v. Metropolitan Gov’t of Nashville, 17 TAM 31-12 (Tenn. Ct. App. July 8, 1992) (questioning what is a governing body); Op. Att’y Gen. No. 94-94, 19 TAM 39-55 (Aug. 30, 1994) (governing body may be a partisan caucus if the county legislative body gives them authority to make decisions, but not as to informal caucuses). The board of directors of a preferred provider organization that contracts with insurance companies and employers and provides contracting third-party payers with a network of physicians is considered a governmental body because the organization is a non-profit, public benefit organization which acts on behalf of and is, in essence, a division or subsidiary of the county hospital district that created it. Saunders v. Health Partners Inc., 997 S.W.2d 140 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1998). A high school assembly called by a principal to address the faculty and student body is not a meeting of a governmental body subject to the Open Meetings Act. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-128 (June 18, 1999).

9. Appointed as well as elected bodies.

D. What constitutes a meeting subject to the law.

The Act defines meeting as “the convening of a governing body of a public body for which a quorum is required in order to make a decision or to deliberate toward a decision on any matter.” T.C.A. § 8-44-102(C)(2).

1. Number that must be present.

a. Must a minimum number be present to constitute a “meeting”?

Two or more people may constitute a meeting. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(1)(A).

b. What effect does absence of a quorum have?

A quorum is necessary for a decision or deliberation toward a decision. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(2). However, a quorum is not required for there to be a meeting within the meaning of the Act.

2. Nature of business subject to the law.

Meetings subject to the Act are those that are called to make a decision or to deliberate toward a decision on any matter. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(C).

a. “Information gathering” and “fact-finding” sessions.

Meetings for “information gathering” and “fact-finding” are open except for on-site inspections of any project or program. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(C).

b. Deliberations toward decisions.

The Act covers meetings to deliberate toward a decision on any matter. The Act, however, does not require the members of the public body to verbalize or discuss a matter before a vote. Baltrip v. Norris, 23 S.W.3d 336, 341 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2000). Chance meetings of two (2) or more members of a public body are not to be considered meetings, but such chance meetings, informal gatherings, or electronic communications cannot be used to circumvent the spirit or requirement of the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(c)(1995). This subsection of the Act has been construed not to bar separate solicitations of commission members’ votes by one who wished an appointment to the commission. Jackson v. Hensley, 715 S.W.2d 605 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1986) (holding that no statutory meeting occurred until the commission met to elect the new trustee). However, the Act was violated when three of five councilmen discussed and agreed to an item in advance of a city council meeting. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 83-033 (Jan. 24, 1983). However, the Attorney General has opined that an exit conference between the State Comptroller and members of a governing body which was conducted for the limited purpose of imparting information to local government officials, with the officials not deliberating toward or making a decision, was not subject to the Act. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-090 (April 12, 1999). Job interviews conducted by a county airport committee are considered meetings because they clearly involve deliberation toward employment decisions. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 96-040 (March 12, 1996).

3. Electronic meetings.

a. Conference calls and video/Internet conferencing.

Under T.C.A. § 8-44-108, participants in a meeting may use electronic or other communications as long as every participant is capable of simultaneously hearing the other members of the meeting and it is possible to speak among the participants throughout the meeting. Further, if a physical quorum is not present at the meeting, the governing body must make a finding of “necessity” for electronic participation. Id. This statute, by its terms, applies only to state government, and not to local government. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-152 (Jan. 24, 1983). Also, each part of the meeting required to be open to the public must be audible to the public at the location specified in the notice of the meeting.

b. E-mail.

Under T.C.A. § 8-44-109, a governing body may allow members to communicate by means of a forum over the Internet if this forum is at all times available to the public (other than for reasons of technical maintenance or unforeseeable technical limitations). Such postings on a forum shall not be a substitute to decision making by a governing body in a meeting held under the Act. Unless the provisions of this section are followed, emails between members of a governing body will violate the Act. Johnston v. Metro Gov’t of Nashville and Davidson County, 2009 Tenn. App. LEXIS 812 (Tenn. Ct. App. Dec. 10, 2009) (emails discussing proposed zoning changes violated Act.)

c. Text messages.

Only if such communications meet the requirements for email, as stated above.

d. Instant messaging.

Only if such communications meet the requirements for email, as stated above.

e. Social media and online discussion boards.

Only if such communications meet the requirements for email, as stated above.
E. Categories of meetings subject to the law.

Both regular and special meetings are subject to the Sunshine Law. T.C.A. § 8-44-103 (1995).

1. Regular meetings.
   a. Definition.

A regular meeting is one that is previously scheduled by statute, ordinance, or resolution. T.C.A. § 8-44-103(a).

b. Notice.

Governing bodies are required to give adequate public notice of all meetings. T.C.A. § 8-44-103(a). See Kinser v. Town of Oliver Springs, 19 TAM 9-16 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 10, 1994) (holding that notice of city council meeting posted inside City Hall “where everybody pays their water bill” and over entrance to police department “where people come to pay their tickets” was adequate because the meeting concerned a police personnel matter); Neese v. Paris Sch. Dist., 813 S.W.2d 511 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 24, 1995) (reasoning that notice of conditional permit being sought was sufficient when placed in newspapers and mailed to property owners). In Englewood Citizens For Alternate B v. The Town of Englewood, 1999 Tenn. App. LEXIS 406, the court set forth a three-prong test. To qualify as adequate public notice, the notice given must: (1) be posted in a location where a member of the community could become aware of such a notice; (2) reasonably describe the purpose of the meeting or the action proposed to be taken; (3) be posted at a time sufficiently in advance of the actual meeting in order to give citizens both an opportunity to become aware of and attend the meeting. Failure to specifically state in the notice every issue to be discussed in a meeting does not necessarily make notice inadequate when the meeting has several purposes. Souder v. Health Partners, Inc.,997 S.W.2d 140, 149-50 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1998).

(1). Time limit for giving notice.

There is no specified time limit for notice.

(2). To whom notice is given.

Notice need only be “public notice.”

(3). Where posted.

Notice must be “adequate public notice.” See Franklin County v. The Town of Monteagle, 2001 Tenn. App. LEXIS 379 (Tenn.Ct. App. May 23, 2001) (publication of notice of regular meeting in local monthly newsletter and publication of two notices in newspaper of general circulation with time and place of meeting was adequate notice.)

(4). Public agenda items required.

None.

(5). Other information required in notice.

Merely because there is “one passing comment” about the substance of a particular issue, with further discussion of the procedural or evidentiary matters related to the issue, with no decision regarding the ultimate disposition of the issue, there was no violation of the notice requirement of the Act when that issue had not been placed on the meeting agenda. Dunn v. Knox County, 2005 Tenn App. LEXIS 254 (Tenn. Ct. App. Dec. 8, 2004). A “misleading notice is not adequate public notice.” Englewood Citizens v. Town of Englewood, 1999 Tenn. App. LEXIS 406 (Tenn. Ct. App. June 24, 1999) (holding that agenda item identified as only “Letter to State concerning Hwy 411,” was too cryptic to be adequate notice).

(6). Penalties and remedies for failure to give adequate notice.

Same as for other violations of the law.

c. Minutes.

The Act mandates that minutes of a governmental body’s meetings be promptly and fully recorded. Furthermore, all votes must be by public vote or public ballot or public roll call with no secret votes, ballots, or roll calls allowed. T.C.A. § 8-44-104 (1995). Failure to include an account of the vote in the minutes from a meeting in accordance with the Act might not necessarily render action taken at the meeting void but might result in the imposition of other sanctions in accordance with § 8-44-106(c) and (d). Zseltvay v. Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County, 986 S.W. 2d 581 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1998). But see Allen v. City of Memphis, 2004 Tenn. App. LEXIS 403 (Jan. 22, 2004) (holding that failure to record minutes could void action taken at meeting). “Strict compliance with [the Act] is necessary with respect to the matters required to be recorded and included in the minutes . . . . The Act does not distinguish between technical and substantive violations.” Grace Fellowship Church v. Lenoir City, 2002 Tenn. App. LEXIS 49 (Tenn. Ct. App. Jun 23, 2002) (quoting Zseltvay).

(1). Information required.

Minutes shall include a record of persons present, motions, proposals, and resolutions made, results of votes taken and individual votes cast. The Act requires that meetings be “fully recorded” but does not require that the minutes be “complete and exact” Hutcell v. Jefferson County, 2003 Tenn. App. LEXIS 243 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 15, 2005) (noting that the Act does not require recording by audio or video means).

(2). Are minutes public record?

Yes.

2. Special or emergency meetings.
   a. Definition.

A special meeting is one that is not previously scheduled by statute, ordinance, or resolution, or for which notice is not already provided by law. T.C.A. § 8-44-103(b) (1995).

b. Notice requirements.

Any governmental body that holds a special meeting “shall give adequate public notice of such meeting.” T.C.A. § 8-44-103(b) (1995). “Adequate public notice means adequate public notice based on the totality of the circumstances as would fairly inform the public . . . .” Memphis Publishing Co. v. City of Memphis, 513 S.W.2d 511, 513 (Tenn. 1974). Notice of a special meeting need not be published in a local newspaper to be adequate. State ex rel. Moer v. Brewer, No. 85-335-II (Tenn. Ct. App. Mar. 26, 1986) (holding that notices posted on bulletin boards of nursing home, hospital, and county court house and radio broadcast of the meeting were adequate). See Rock Abu-Sakher v. Humphreys County, 955 S.W.2d 65 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1997) (notice of meeting of airport authority for 4:00 p.m. in one member's office was invalid when the meeting was actually held at 4:30 in the courthouse annex). The notice requirements of the Act are in addition to, and not in substitution of, any other notice required by law. T.C.A. § 8-44-103(c).

(1). Time limit for giving notice.

The Act does not provide specific time limits for the giving of notice for meetings, but under case law, the notice must be posted at a time sufficiently in advance of the actual meeting in order to give citizens both an opportunity to become aware of and attend the meeting. See Englewood Citizens 1999 Tenn. App. LEXIS 406, * 12 (two days’ notice was not considered sufficient).

(2). To whom notice is given.

The Act does not specify to whom notice of a special meeting must be made, other than the “public.” T.C.A. § 8-44-103(b).
3. Closed meetings or executive sessions.

The Act makes limited provision for executive sessions but provides no procedural guidelines for such meetings or sessions.

a. Definition.

No definition for executive sessions is provided in the Act.

b. Notice requirements.

Any executive session must be provided in the agenda for the meeting. T.C.A. § 8-44-104.

(1). Time limit for giving notice.

Same as for notice of open meeting.

(2). To whom notice is given.

Same as for notice of open meeting.

(3). Where posted.

Same as for notice of open meeting.

(4). Public agenda items required.

Same as for notice of open meeting.

(6). Penalties and remedies for failure to give adequate notice.

Same as for any other failure to give adequate notice under the Act.

c. Minutes.

(1). Information required.

Minutes of a secret meeting will not reflect the substance of what was discussed in an executive session, but no votes may be taken in executive session. T.C.A. § 8-4-104. For example, a governing body might meet in a closed session with its attorney to discuss the pros and cons of a case to consider whether to appeal an adverse trial court result. Then, the body would return to an open session to vote on whether to pursue the appeal, without discussing what was said in the closed session.

(2). Are minutes a public record?

Yes.

d. Requirement to meet in public before closing meeting.

This will frequently happen, where it will be announced why the executive session is being held.

e. Requirement to state statutory authority for closing meetings before closure.

No.

f. Tape recording requirements.

No.

F. Recording/broadcast of meetings.

The Act makes no provision for recording or broadcast of meetings, but those means of public access have been employed, especially by the media. See Op. Att’y Gen. No. 95-126 (Dec. 28, 1995) (proposed city ordinance to ban video or photographic equipment at meeting of alderman would violate Tennessee Constitution and Open Meetings Act).

1. Sound recordings allowed.

Yes, subject to reasonable restrictions.

2. Photographic recordings allowed.

Yes, subject to reasonable restrictions.

G. Are there sanctions for noncompliance?

Yes. Actions taken at meeting will generally be void, and the court can enjoin further violations, and impose future reporting requirements upon the public body. T.C.A. § 8-44-106.

II. EXEMPTIONS AND OTHER LEGAL LIMITATIONS

A. Exemptions in the open meetings statute.

Tennessee’s sunshine Law provides that the only exceptions to the Act must be based solely on constitutional grounds; however, the legislature has provided specific statutory exemptions to the Act.

1. Character of exemptions.

a. General or specific.

The exemptions are specific.

b. Mandatory or discretionary closure.

No such closure provisions exist.

2. Description of each exemption.

The Act allows certain meetings subject to the Act to protect the confidentiality of proprietary information or trade secrets that relate to coverage of government employees under the Tennessee consolidated retirement system. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b)(1)(E)(i). Additionally, there are several other express exemptions contained in the Tennessee Code. Staff meetings of the Tennessee Industrial Finance Corporation held to consider applications for financing are not subject to the Act. T.C.A. § 4-17-408(e). Under the Hazardous Chemical Right To Know Law, administrative hearings that involve trade secrets can be closed. T.C.A. § 50-3-2013(c)(1). Screening panels of the Board of Chiropractic Examiners utilized to investigate, mediate or arbitrate... complaints are not subject to the Act. T.C.A. § 63-4-115(g). Similar screening panels of the state Board of Nursing are not subject to the Act. T.C.A. § 63-7-115(b)(3).

B. Any other statutory requirements for closed or open meetings.

Although the Act requires that meetings be open to the public, the Act does not require governing bodies to permit members of the public to speak, comment, or actively participate in the meeting. Whittemore v. Brentwood Planning Comm’n., 835 S.W.2d 11 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1992). It is not a violation of the Act for a governing body to order the removal of a person who is disrupting the meeting.

C. Court mandated opening, closing.

The Tennessee Supreme Court in Smith County Education Ass’n v. Anderson, 676 S.W.2d 328 at 335 (Tenn. 1984), held the attorney-client privilege to be a constitutionally required exception to protect discussion between governmental bodies and their attorneys concerning pending litigation. The court held that because the legislature has no authority to enact laws that interfere with the judicially imposed duty on an attorney to maintain clients’ confidences and secrets, a construction of the Act requiring abrogation of this duty is an unconstitutional breach of the separation of powers and authority doctrines. Id. at 334. This attorney-client exception is a “narrow” one applying only when “the public body is a named party in a lawsuit” and only when the discussions in the meetings deal with “present and pending litigation.” Id. at 334-35. In another similar case, the Tennessee Supreme Court continued to adhere to the Smith doctrine. Van Hooser v. Warren County Bd. of Education, 807 S.W.2d 230 (Tenn. 1991). The Court held that the school board properly conducted a closed meeting to discuss a pending controversy pertaining to a suspended school teacher. The Court seems to have erred the requirement that a group be a named party to a lawsuit to close a discussion. However, for the attorney-client privilege exception to apply, the group must actually be discussing only the pending controversy with its attorney in the closed session. Once any discussion begins concerning other matters, the meeting must be open to the public. In another case, during a public session of a school board meeting, members of the board recessed to discuss the matter at hand with their counsel. Immediately after reconvening, the board voted on the matter without verbalizing or discussing it. The court held that because this private meeting with counsel concerned a pending controversy that might result in litigation, the meeting did not violate the Act. Baltrip v. Norris, 23 S.W.2d at 341.

III. MEETING CATEGORIES -- OPEN OR CLOSED.

A. Adjudications by administrative bodies.

1. Deliberations closed, but not fact-finding.

See above.

2. Only certain adjudications closed, i.e. under certain statutes.

See above.

B. Budget sessions.

Presumably open.

C. Business and industry relations.

Closed executive sessions if discussion or consideration of commercial or financial information or trade secrets. T.C.A. § 4-17-109(b). But meetings of county economic development board during which it carries out its function as a joint economic and community development board under T.C.A. § 6-58-114 are subject to the Act. Op. Att’y. Gen. No. 03-091 (July 24, 2003).

D. Federal programs.

Presumably open. Specifically, the Act provides that community action agencies that administer community action programs under 42 U.S.C. § 2790, are governing bodies subject to the openness requirements of the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b).

E. Financial data of public bodies.

Presumably open.

F. Financial data, trade secrets or proprietary data of private corporations and individuals.

G. Gifts, trusts and honorary degrees.

Presumably open, but such discussions are not addressed in the Act.

H. Grand jury testimony by public employees.

Closed. Tenn. R. Crim. P. 6(k)(1).

I. Licensing examinations.

Presumably open.

J. Litigation; pending litigation or other attorney-client privileges.

Closed if discussion is between public body and attorney concerning pending litigation when public body is named party in a lawsuit. Tenn. Const. Art. II, §§ 1 and 2, as construed by Smith County Education Ass’n v. Anderson, 676 S.W.2d 328 (Tenn. 1984).

K. Negotiations and collective bargaining of public employees.

Open, except that strategy sessions of either the union committee or the governmental entity committee, meeting separately, may be closed. T.C.A. § 8-44-201(a) and (b).

1. Any sessions regarding collective bargaining.

Open, except strategy sessions.

2. Only those between the public employees and the public body.

Yes.

L. Parole board meetings, or meetings involving parole board decisions.

The enabling statute of the Board of Paroles does not require that parole decisions be made by meeting, and therefore the Open Meetings Act does not apply to the board’s procedure for making parole decisions. Arnold v. Tennessee Board of Paroles, 956 S.W.2d 478 (Tenn. 1997). But when the board does meet, proper notice of the meetings is required. Id. Also see T.C.A. § 40-28-105(b) (requiring that meetings of the board of paroles be conducted with notice and public ballots or public roll calls). See also Smith v. Harter, 20 TAM 8-35(Tenn. Ct. App. Jan. 27, 1995) (definition of “meeting” not so broad as to cover any alleged discussion among parole board members); Op. Att’y Gen. No. 95-10, 20 TAM 12-59 (March 3, 1995) (requests to members of Board of Paroles to involve parolees as informants in investigations is subject to the Act).

M. Patients; discussions on individual patients.

The Open Meetings Act makes no specific exemption for discussion of individual patients. But see T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(1) (1995) (making medical records of patients at state hospitals or medical facilities confidential); T.C.A. § 33-3-104(10) (making identity of present or former patients treated for mental illness or retardation confidential); T.C.A. § 8-44-102(B) (concerning meetings of private nonprofit corporations receiving money from the government).
N. Personnel matters.

Open. See Dorrier v. Dark, 537 S.W.2d 888 (Tenn. 1976) (holding that public school teacher’s termination hearing was void because in violation of Open Meetings law). But meetings of private, nonprofit corporations receiving money from the government may not always be open. T.C.A. § 8-44-102(b) (1995).

1. Interviews for public employment.
If conducted by a governing body, it must be open.

2. Disciplinary matters, performance or ethics of public employees.
If conducted by a governing body, it must be open.

3. Dismissal; considering dismissal of public employees.
If conducted by a governing body, it must be open. A Civil Service Commission was not a governing body under the Act. Therefore, its deliberation over an employee’s termination was not a meeting under the Act. Redmon v. City of Memphis, 2010 Tenn. App. LEXIS 122 (Tenn. Ct. App. Feb. 19, 2010).

O. Real estate negotiations.
State board of equalization meetings are subject to the Act. Op. Att’y Gen. No. 85-105 (April 8, 1985); however, T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a) (6) makes confidential state agency records containing opinions of value of real and personal property intended to be acquired for public purposes prior to final acquisition.

P. Security, national and/or state, of buildings, personnel or other.
The Open Meetings Act makes no specific exemption for such matters. But see T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(3) (making confidential papers, documents, and papers of the military department that involve the security of the United States or State of Tennessee, including national guard personnel records, staff studies, and investigations).

Q. Students; discussions on individual students.
The Open Meetings Act makes no specific exemption for such matters. But see T.C.A. § 10-7-504(a)(4) (making most records of students in public educational institutions confidential).

IV. PROCEDURE FOR ASSERTING RIGHT OF ACCESS

A. When to challenge.

1. Does the law provide expedited procedure for reviewing request to attend upcoming meetings?
The Act makes no provision for expedited review of a request to attend upcoming meetings.

2. When barred from attending.
The only specified remedy for public exclusion from meeting covered by the Act is court review.

3. To set aside decision.
This is the primary remedy under the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-105. In 1990, however, the Tennessee Court of Appeals stated:

We do not believe that the legislative intent of this statute was forever to bar a governing body from properly ratifying its decision made in a prior violative manner. However, neither was it the legislative intent to allow such a body to ratify a decision in a subsequent meeting by a perfunctory crystallization of its earlier action. We hold that the purpose of the act is satisfied if the ultimate decision is made in accordance with the Public Meetings Act, and if it is a new and substantial reconsideration of the issues involved, in which the public is afforded ample opportunity to know the facts and to be heard with reference to the matters at issue.

Neese v. Paris Special Sch. Dist., 813 S.W.2d 423 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1990). In Allen v. City of Memphis, 2004 Tenn. App. LEXIS 403 (Jan. 22, 2004), the court concluded that a governing body’s subsequent action to correct a failure to record minutes was nothing more than a “perfunctory crystallization of its earlier action” when there was no substantial reconsideration of the issue. Therefore, the court considered the action taken by the body to be void. If the body were to repeal its action taken in violation of the Act, however, this would render moot a claim under the Act. Cathery v. City of Dickson, 2002 Tenn. App. LEXIS 342 (Tenn. Ct. App. May 10, 2002).

Where a city held five subsequent public meetings to consider the sale of public building, this cured any violation of the Act by several officials meeting in private earlier with investors about the sale. Dossert v. City of Kingsport, 258 S.W.3d 139 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2007).

If the governing body rescinds its action taken at a meeting in violation of the Act, this will moot the violation. Person v. Board of Commissioners, 2009 Tenn. App. LEXIS 652 (Tenn. Ct. App. Sept 28, 2009).

4. For ruling on future meetings.
Permanent injunction for this purpose is also available. T.C.A. § 8-44-106.

5. Other.
The court will retain jurisdiction for one year to confirm compliance with the law. T.C.A. § 8-44-106.

B. How to start.

Tennessee has no administrative review of denial of access. Therefore, the way to seek review is to file an action in court.

1. Where to ask for ruling.
Not applicable.

a. Administrative forum.
Not applicable.

(1). Agency procedure for challenge.
Not applicable.

(2). Commission or independent agency.
Not applicable.

2. Applicable time limits.
Not applicable.

3. Contents of request for ruling.
Not applicable.

4. How long should you wait for a response?
Not applicable.

5. Are subsequent or concurrent measures (formal or informal) available?
Not applicable.

C. Court review of administrative decision.
This is the starting place for any formal challenge to a closed meeting.

1. Who may sue?

2. Will the court give priority to the pleading?

The Act has no provision for priority to the pleading. But see Tenn. R. Civ. P. 65.03 (aggrieved party may seek restraining order without notice to opposing party if applicant will suffer immediate and irreparable injury before a hearing can be held).

3. Pro se possibility, advisability.

Pro se representation is possible. The success of such pro se actions may depend upon the receptivity of the judge to such representation and how well settled the issues of law are.

4. What issues will the court address?

Courts have authority to nullify any action taken in violation of the Act, provided that nullification of actions does not apply to otherwise legal commitments affecting the public debt of the entity concerned. T.C.A. § 8-44-105. Furthermore, the court shall permanently enjoin any person found to be in violation of the Act, and each separate occurrence of meetings held in violation of the Act shall constitute a separate violation. T.C.A. § 8-44-106(c).

a. Open the meeting.

Yes.

b. Invalidate the decision.

Yes. See Abou-Sakker v. Humphreys County, 995 S.W.2d 65 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1997) (County's decision to hire airport manager violated Act and was thus invalid.)

c. Order future meetings open.

Yes.

5. Pleading format.

The statute provides for no specific pleading format, but Tennessee citizenship should be included in the allegations since that status is necessary for standing to enforce the Act. See Currie Elementary School Parent & Teachers Org. v. Lauderdale County Sch. Bd., 855 S.W.2d at 858; T.C.A. § 8-44-106(a).

6. Time limit for filing suit.

The Act provides no time limit for filing suit; however, the six-year statute of limitations for malfeasance or nonfeasance by public officials may be applicable.

7. What court.

Suit can be brought in the circuit courts, chancery courts, and other courts having equity jurisdiction, and these courts have the power “to issue injunctions, impose penalties, and otherwise enforce the purposes” of the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-106. There is a right to a jury. Smith County Educ. As’n v. Anderson, 676 S.W.2d 328, 337 (Tenn. 1984).

8. Judicial remedies available.

Judicial remedies include power to nullify any action taken in the unlawfully held meeting and to permanently enjoin further violations. An action taken by a governing body which is later determined to be void under the Open Meetings Act can still serve as the basis for another claim, such as discrimination. Forbes v. Wilson County Emergency District 911 Board, 966 S.W.2d 417 (Tenn. 1998).

9. Availability of court costs and attorneys’ fees.

In Fannon v. City of LaFollette, 2010 Tenn. LEXIS 1207 (Tenn. Dec. 21, 2010), the court (with one justice dissenting) denied an award of attorney’s fees because the Act did not provide for attorney’s fees. The court did allow discretionary court costs, which typically are allowed in Tennessee litigation.

10. Fines.

Arguably, fines are available under a liberal reading of T.C.A. § 8-44-106(a), however, there is no reported case indicating that this has been done. Based upon the Supreme Court’s ruling in Fannon as it relates to attorney’s fees, fines would be unlikely.

11. Other penalties.

The Act mandates that the court retain jurisdiction over the case for one year and order the defendants to report in writing to the court semiannually of their compliance with the Act. T.C.A. § 8-44-106(d).

D. Appealing initial court decisions.

Appellate review is available from the trial court’s final judgment on the merits. See T.C.A. § 8-44-106 (this section would permit both final and non-final judgments).

1. Appeal routes.

Appeals must be made pursuant to the Tennessee Rules of Appellate Procedure, which make no distinctions for meetings cases. Appeal as of right would be to the Tennessee Court of Appeals. Thereafter, permissive appeal may be made to the Tennessee Supreme Court within 60 days after the Court of Appeals’ decision.

2. Time limits for filing appeals.

The time limit for filing an appeal is within 30 days after the date of entry of the final judgment. Tenn. R. App. P. 4(a).

3. Contact of interested amici.

Interested amici can apprise themselves of open meetings issues that might appear before the Tennessee Supreme Court by reviewing the decisions of the Tennessee Court of Appeals that appear in Tennessee Attorneys Memo, a weekly publication containing a synopsis of decisions of that court.

The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press often files amici curiae briefs in cases involving significant media law issues before a state’s highest court. The Tennessee Press Association, Tennessee Association of Broadcasters, and the Tennessee Coalition for Open Government might also join as amici.

V. ASSERTING A RIGHT TO COMMENT.

The statute does not address a right to comment, although governing bodies have traditionally allowed citizen comment.

A. Is there a right to participate in public meetings?

No. The Act does not require governing bodies to permit members of the public to speak, comment, or actively participate in the meeting. Whetstone v. Brentwood Planning Comm’n., 835 S.W.2d 11 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1992). It is not a violation of the Act for a governing body to order the removal of a person who is disrupting the meeting.

B. Must a commenter give notice of intentions to comment?

Act does not address.

C. Can a public body limit comment?

Yes.

D. How can a participant assert rights to comment?

Express desire to comment to the governing body.

E. Are there sanctions for unapproved comment?

Removal from meeting.

Exceptions to the Public Records Act

Prepared by Douglas R. Pierce, King & Ballow, 315 Union Street, Suite 1100, Nashville, TN 37201. (615) 726-5521.

This list was current as of April 2011. The Tennessee General Assembly, however, has averaged adding approximately eight new exceptions each year since 1988.

There are a number of exceptions to the general right of access to public records under the Tennessee Public Records Act. While many of these exceptions are set forth in T.C.A. §§ 10-7-503 and 504 of the act, many more exist outside the act. Moreover, these exceptions are always changing and/or evolving. Part 5, Miscellaneous Provisions (Refs & Annos)

§ 10-7-503. Inspection by citizens; confidentiality; law enforcement personnel records

(a) (1) As used in this part and title 8, chapter 4, part 6, “public record or records” or “state record or records” means all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, photographs, microfilms, electronic data processing files and output, films, sound recordings or other material, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received pursuant to law or ordinance or in connection with the transaction of official business by any governmental agency.

(B) The custodian of a public record or the custodian's designee shall promptly make available for inspection any public record not specifically exempt from disclosure. In the event it is not practicable for the record to be promptly available for inspection, the custodian shall, within seven (7) business days:

(i) Make the information available to the requestor;

(ii) Deny the request in writing or by completing a records request response form developed by the office of open records counsel. The response shall include the basis for the denial; or

(iii) Furnish the requestor a completed records request response form developed by the office of open records counsel stating the time reasonably necessary to produce the record or information.

(C) [Deleted by code commission.]

(3) Failure to respond to the request as described in subdivision (a)(2) shall constitute a denial and the person making the request shall have the right to bring an action as provided in § 10-7-505.

(4) This section shall not be construed as requiring a governmental entity or public official to sort through files to compile information; however, a person requesting the information shall be allowed to inspect the nonexempt records.

(5) This section shall not be construed as requiring a governmental entity or public official to create a record that does not exist; however, the re-election of confidential information from a public record or electronic database shall not constitute a new record.

(6) A governmental entity is prohibited from avoiding its disclosure obligations by contractually delegating its responsibility to a private entity.

(7) (A) A records custodian may not require a written request or assess a charge to view a public record unless otherwise required by law; however, a records custodian may require a request for copies of public records to be in writing or that the request be made on a form developed by the office of open records counsel. The records custodian may also require any citizen making a request to view a public record or to make a copy of a public record to present a photo identification, if the person possesses a photo identification, issued by a governmental entity, that includes the person's address. If a person does not possess a photo identification, the records custodian may require other forms of identification acceptable to the records custodian.

(B) Any request for inspection or copying of a public record shall be sufficiently detailed to enable the records custodian to identify the specific records to be located or copied.

(C) (i) A records custodian may require a requestor to pay the custodian's reasonable costs incurred in producing the requested material and to assess the reasonable costs in the manner established by the office of open records counsel pursuant to § 8-4-604.

(ii) The records custodian shall provide a requestor an estimate of the reasonable costs to provide copies of the requested material.

(b) The head of a governmental entity may promulgate rules in accordance with the Uniform Administrative Procedures Act, compiled in title 4, chapter 5, to maintain the confidentiality of records concerning adoption proceedings or records required to be kept confidential by federal statute or regulation as a condition for the receipt of federal funds or for participation in a federally funded program.

(c) (1) Except as provided in § 10-7-504(g), all law enforcement personnel records shall be open for inspection as provided in subsection (a); however, whenever the personnel records of a law enforcement officer are inspected as provided in subsection (a), the custodian shall make a record of such inspection and provide notice, within three (3) days from the date of the inspection, to the officer whose personnel records have been inspected:

(A) That such inspection has taken place;

(B) The name, address and telephone number of the person making such inspection;

(C) For whom the inspection was made; and

(D) The date of such inspection.

(2) Information made confidential by this chapter shall be redacted whenever possible, but the costs associated with redacting records or information, including the cost of copies and staff time to provide redacted copies, shall be borne as provided by current law.

No audit may be accepted as meeting the requirements of this section until such audit has been approved by the comptroller of the treasury;

(D) The audits may be prepared by a certified public accountant, a public accountant or by the department of audit. If the governing body of the municipality fails or refuses to have the audit prepared, the comptroller of the treasury may appoint a certified public accountant or public accountant or direct the department to prepare the audit. The cost of such audit shall be paid by the organization;

(E) Each such audit shall be completed as soon as practicable after the end of the fiscal year of the organization. One (1) copy of each audit shall be furnished to the organization and one (1) copy shall be filed with the comptroller of the treasury. The copy of the comptroller of the treasury shall be available for public inspection. Copies of each audit shall also be made available to the press; and

(F) In addition to any other information required by the comptroller of the treasury, each audit shall also contain:

(e) A restraining order issued by a court of competent jurisdiction prohibiting violence against the person to whom it is issued;

(f) A court order protecting the confidentiality of certain information issued upon the request of a district attorney general to a victim or witness in a criminal case, whether pending or completed; and

(g) An affidavit from the director of a rape crisis center or domestic violence shelter certifying that an individual is a victim in need of protection; provided, that such affidavit is on a standardized form to be developed and distributed to such centers and shelters by the Tennessee task force against domestic violence; and

(iii) “Utility service provider” means any entity, whether public or private, that provides electricity, natural gas, water, or telephone service to customers on a subscription basis, whether or not regulated by the Tennessee regulatory authority.

(B) If the procedure set out in this subdivision (a)(15) is followed, identifying information compiled and maintained by a utility service provider concerning a person who has obtained a valid protection document shall be treated as confidential and not open for inspection by the public.

(C) For the provisions of subdivision (a)(15)(B) to be applicable, a copy of the protection document must be presented during regular business hours by the person to whom it was granted to the records custodian of the utility service provider whose records such person seeks to make confidential, and such person must request that all identifying information about such person be maintained as confidential.

(D) The protection document must at the time of presentation be in full force and effect. The records custodian may assume that a protection document is in full force and effect if it is on the proper form and if on its face it has not expired.

(E) Upon being presented with a valid protection document, the records custodian shall accept receipt of it and maintain it in a separate file containing in alphabetical order all protection documents presented to such records custodian pursuant to this subdivision (a)(15). Nothing in this subdivision (a)(15) shall be construed as prohibiting a records custodian from maintaining an electronic file of such protection documents provided the records custodian retains the original document presented.

(F) Identifying information concerning a person that is maintained as confidential pursuant to this subdivision (a)(15) shall remain confidential until the person who requested such confidentiality notifies in person the records custodian of the appropriate utility service provider that there is no longer a need for such information to remain confidential. A records custodian receiving such notification shall remove the protection document concerning such person from the file maintained pursuant to subdivision (a)(15)(E), and the identifying information about such person shall be treated in the same manner as the identifying information concerning any other customer of the utility. Before removing the protection document and releasing any identifying information, the records custodian of the utility service provider shall require that the person requesting release of the identifying information maintained as confidential produce sufficient identification to satisfy such custodian that he or she is the same person as the person to whom the document was originally granted.

(G) After July 1, 1999, if information is requested from a utility service provider about a person other than the requestor and such request is for information that is in whole or in part identifying information, the records custodian of the utility service provider shall check the separate file containing all protection documents that have been presented to such utility. If the person about whom information is being requested has presented a valid protection document to the records custodian in accordance with the procedure set out in this subdivision (a)(15), and has requested that identifying information about such person be maintained as confidential, the records custodian shall redact or refuse to disclose to the requestor any identifying information about such person.

(H) Nothing in this subdivision (a)(15) shall prevent the district attorney general and counsel for the defendant from providing to each other in a pending criminal case, where the constitutional rights of the defendant require it, information which otherwise would be held confidential under this subdivision (a)(15).

(16) As used in this subdivision (a)(16), unless the context otherwise requires:

(i) “Governmental entity” means the state of Tennessee and any county, municipality, city or other political subdivision of the state of Tennessee;

(ii) “Identifying information” means the home and work addresses and telephone numbers, social security number, and any other information that could reasonably be used to locate the whereabouts of an individual;

(iii) “Protection document” means:

(a) An order of protection issued pursuant to title 36, chapter 3, part 6, that has been granted after proper notice and an opportunity to be heard;

(b) A similar order of protection issued by the court of another jurisdiction;

(f) A court order protecting the confidentiality of certain information issued upon the request of a district attorney general to a victim or witness in a criminal case, whether pending or completed; and

(g) An affidavit from the director of a rape crisis center or domestic violence shelter certifying that an individual is a victim in need of protection; provided, that such affidavit is on a standardized form to be developed and distributed to such centers and shelters by the Tennessee task force against domestic violence.

(B) If the procedure set out in this subdivision (a)(16) is followed, identifying information compiled and maintained by a governmental entity concerning a person who has obtained a valid protection document may be treated as confidential and may not be open for inspection by the public.

(C) For the provisions of subdivision (a)(16)(B) to be applicable, a copy of the protection document must be presented during regular business hours by the person to whom it was granted to the records custodian of the governmental entity whose records such person seeks to make confidential, and such person must request that all identifying information about such person be maintained as confidential.

(D) The protection document presented must at the time of presentation be in full force and effect. The records custodian may assume that a protection document is in full force and effect if it is on the proper form and if on its face it has not expired.

(E) Upon being presented with a valid protection document, the record custodian may accept receipt of it. If the records custodian does not accept receipt of such document, the records custodian shall explain to the person presenting the document why receipt cannot be accepted and that the identifying information concerning such person will not be maintained as confidential. If the records custodian does accept receipt of the protection document, such records custodian shall maintain it in a separate file containing in alphabetical order all protection documents presented to such custodian pursuant to this subdivision (a)(16). Nothing in this subdivision (a)(16) shall be construed as prohibiting a records custodian from maintaining an electronic file of such protection documents; provided, that the custodian retains the original document presented.

(F) Identifying information concerning a person that is maintained as confidential pursuant to this subdivision (a)(16) shall remain confidential until the person requesting such confidentiality notifies in person the appropriate records custodian of the governmental entity that there is no longer a need for such information to remain confidential. A records custodian receiving such notification shall remove the protection document concerning such person from the file maintained pursuant to subdivision (a)(16)(E), and the identifying information about such person shall be treated in the same manner as identifying information maintained by the governmental entity about other persons. Before removing the protection document and releasing any identifying information, the records custodian of the governmental entity shall require that the person requesting release of the identifying information maintained as confidential produce sufficient identification to satisfy such records custodian that such person is the same person as to whom the document was originally granted.

(G) After July 1, 1999, if:

(i) Information is requested from a governmental entity about a person other than the person making the request;

(ii) Such request is for information that is in whole or in part identifying information; and

(iii) The records custodian of the governmental entity to whom the request was made accepts receipt of protection documents and maintains identifying information as confidential;

then such records custodian shall check the separate file containing all protection documents that have been presented to such entity. If the person about whom information is being requested has presented a valid protection document to the records custodian in accordance with the procedure set out in this subdivision (a)(16), and has requested that identifying information about such person be maintained as confidential, the records custodian shall redact or refuse to disclose to the requestor any identifying information about such person.

(H) Nothing in this subdivision (a)(16) shall prevent the district attorney general and counsel for the defendant from providing to each other in a pending criminal case, where the constitutional rights of the defendant require it, information which otherwise may be held confidential under this subdivision (a)(16).

(I) In an order of protection case, any document required for filing, other than the forms promulgated by the supreme court pursuant to § 36-3-604(b), shall be treated as confidential and kept under seal except that the clerk may transmit any such document to the Tennessee bureau of investigation, 911 service or emergency response agency or other law enforcement agency.

(17) The telephone number, address and any other information which could be used to locate the whereabouts of a domestic violence shelter or rape crisis center may be treated as confidential by a governmental entity, and shall be treated as confidential by a utility service provider as defined in subdivision (a)(15) upon the director of the shelter or crisis center giving written notice to the records custodian of the appropriate entity or utility that such shelter or crisis center desires that such identifying information be maintained as confidential.

(18) Computer programs, software, software manuals, and other types of information manufactured or marketed by persons or entities under legal right and sold, licensed, or donated to Tennessee state boards, agencies, or higher education institutions shall not be open to public inspection; provided, that computer programs, software, software manuals, and other types of information produced by state or higher education employees at state expense shall be available for inspection as part of an audit or legislative review process.

(19) The credit card numbers of persons doing business with the state or political subdivision thereof and any related personal identification numbers (PIN) or commodification codes are confidential and shall not be open for inspection by members of the public, whether this information is received by the state or political subdivision thereof through electronic means or paper transactions.

(C) Information made confidential by this subsection (a) shall be redacted wherever possible and nothing in this subsection (a) shall be used to limit or deny access to otherwise public information because a file, document, or data file contains confidential information. For purposes of this section only, it shall be presumed that redaction of such information is possible. The entity requesting the records shall pay all reasonable costs associated with redaction of materials.

(D) Nothing in this subsection (a) shall be construed to limit access to these records by law enforcement agencies, courts, or other governmental agencies performing official functions.

(E) Nothing in this subsection (a) shall be construed to limit access to information made confidential under this subsection (a), when the consumer expressly authorizes the release of such information.

(21) (A) The following records shall be treated as confidential and shall not be open for public inspection:

(ii) All contingency plans of a governmental entity prepared to respond to or prevent any violent incident, bomb threat, ongoing act of violence at a school or business, ongoing act of violence at a place of public gathering, threat involving a weapon of mass destruction, or terrorist incident.

(B) Documents concerning the cost of governmental utility property, the cost of protecting governmental utility property, the cost of identifying areas of structural or operational vulnerability of a governmental utility, the cost of developing contingency plans for a governmental entity, and the identity of vendors providing goods or services to a governmental entity in connection with the foregoing shall not be confidential. (D) Nothing in this subdivision (a)(21) shall be construed to limit access to these records by other governmental agencies performing official functions or to preclude any governmental agency from allowing public access to these records in the course of performing official functions.

(22) The audit working papers of the comptroller of the treasury and state, county and local government internal audit staffs conducting audits as authorized by § 4-3-304 shall be considered confidential and therefore shall not be open records pursuant to this chapter.

(b) Any record designated “confidential” shall be so treated by agencies in the maintenance, storage and disposition of such confidential records. These records shall be destroyed in such a manner that they cannot be read, interpreted or reconstructed. The destruction shall be in accordance with an approved records disposition authorization from the public records commission.

(e) Notwithstanding any provision of the law to the contrary, any confidential public record in existence more than seventy (70) years shall be open for public inspection by any person unless disclosure of the record is specifically prohibited or restricted by federal law or unless the record is a record of services for a person for mental illness or mental retardation. The provisions of this section do not apply to a record concerning an adoption or a record maintained by the office of vital records or by the Tennessee bureau of investigation. For the purpose of providing an orderly schedule of availability for access to such confidential public records for public inspection, all records created and designated as confidential prior to January 1, 1901, shall be open for public inspection on January 1, 1985. All other public records created and designated as confidential after January 1, 1901 and which are seventy (70) years old on January 1, 1985, shall be open for public inspection on January 1, 1986, thereafter all such records shall be open for public inspection pursuant to this part after seventy (70) years from the creation date of such records.

(d) Records of any employee’s identity, diagnosis, treatment, or referral for treatment that are maintained by any state or local government employee assistance program shall be confidential; provided, that any such records are maintained separately from personnel and other records regarding such employee that are open for inspection. For purposes of this subsection (d), “employee assistance program” means any program that provides counseling, problem identification, intervention, assessment, or referral for appropriate diagnosis and treatment, and follow-up services to assist employees of such state or local governmental entity who are impaired by personal concerns including, but not limited to, health, marital, family, financial, alcohol, drug, legal, emotional, stress or other personal concerns which may adversely affect employee job performance.

(e) Unpublished telephone numbers in the possession of emergency communications districts created pursuant to title 7, chapter 86, shall be treated as confidential and shall not be open for inspection by members of the public until such time as any provision of the service contract between the telephone service provider and the consumer providing otherwise is effectuated; provided, that addresses held with such unpublished telephone numbers, or addresses otherwise collected or compiled, and in the possession of emergency communications districts created pursuant to title 7, chapter 86, shall be made available upon written request to any county election commission for the purpose of compiling a voter mailing list for a respective county.

(4) Nothing in this subsection (f) shall be construed to close any personnel records of public officers which are currently open under state law.

(5) Nothing in this subsection (f) shall be construed to limit access to personnel information made confidential under this subsection (f), when the employee expressly authorizes the release of such information.

(g) (1) (A) (i) All law enforcement personnel information in the possession of any entity or agency in its capacity as an employer, including officers commissioned pursuant to § 49-7-118, shall be open for inspection as provided in § 10-7-503(a), except personal information shall be redacted where there is a reason not to disclose as determined by the chief law enforcement officer or the chief law enforcement officer’s designee.

   (ii) When a request to inspect includes personal information and the request is for a professional, business, or official purpose, the chief law enforcement officer or custodian shall consider the specific circumstances to determine whether there is a reason not to disclose and shall release all information, except information made confidential in § 10-7-504(f), if there is not such a reason. In all other circumstances, the officer shall be notified prior to disclosure of the personal information and shall be given a reasonable opportunity to be heard and oppose the release of the information. Nothing in this subdivision (g)(1) shall be construed to limit the requestor’s right to judicial review set out in § 10-7-505.

(3) Nothing in this subsection (g) shall be construed to limit access to these records by law enforcement agencies, courts, or other governmental agencies performing official functions.

In addition, if the recordings are relevant to a civil action or criminal prosecution, then the recordings may be released in compliance with a subpoena or an order of a court of record in accordance with the Tennessee rules of civil or criminal procedure. The court or administrative judge having jurisdiction over the proceedings shall issue appropriate protective orders, when necessary, to ensure that the information is disclosed only to appropriate persons. Any report produced by the state, or on the state's behalf, utilizing the information made confidential by subdivision (n)(2) shall not be considered confidential hereunder so long as such report is disclosed in an aggregate or summary format without disclosing discount, rebate, pricing or other financial arrangements at the individual provider level.

§ 10-7-505. Procedures for obtaining access to public records; penalty for willful refusal to disclose

(a) Any citizen of Tennessee who shall request the right of personal inspection of any state, county or municipal record as provided in § 10-7-503, and whose request has been in whole or in part denied by the official and/or designee of the official or through any act or regulation of any official or designee of any official, shall be entitled to petition for access to any such record and to obtain judicial review of the actions taken to deny the access.

(b) Such petition shall be filed in the chancery court or circuit court for the county in which the county or municipal records sought are situated, or in any other court of that county having equity jurisdiction. Upon filing of the petition, the court shall, upon request of the petitioning party, issue an order requiring the defendant or respondent party or parties to immediately appear and show cause, if they have any, why the petition should not be granted. A formal written response to the petition shall not be required, and the generally applicable periods of filing such response shall not apply in the interest of expeditious hearings. The court may direct that the records being sought be submitted under seal for review by the court and no other party. The decision of the court on the petition shall constitute a final judgment on the merits.

(c) The burden of proof for justification of nondisclosure of records sought shall be upon the official and/or designee of the official of those records and the justification for the nondisclosure must be shown by a preponderance of the evidence.

(d) The court, in ruling upon the petition of any party proceeding hereunder, shall render written findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall be empowered to exercise full injunctive remedies and relief to secure the purposes and intentions of this section, and this section shall be broadly construed so as to give the fullest possible public access to public records.

(e) Upon a judgment in favor of the petitioner, the court shall order that the records be made available to the petitioner unless:

(1) There is a timely filing of a notice of appeal; and

(2) The court certifies that there exists a substantial legal issue with respect to the disclosure of the documents which ought to be resolved by the appellate courts.

(f) Any public official required to produce records pursuant to this part shall not be found criminally or civilly liable for the release of such records, nor shall a public official required to release records in such public official's custody or under such public official's control be found responsible for any damages caused, directly or indirectly, by the release of such information.

(g) If the court finds that the governmental entity, or agent thereof, refusing to disclose a record, knew that such record was public and willfully refused to disclose it, such court may, in its discretion, assess all reasonable costs involved in obtaining the record, including reasonable attorneys' fees, against the nondisclosing governmental entity. In determining whether the action was willful, the court may consider any guidance provided to the records custodian by the office of open records counsel as created in title 8, chapter 4.

§ 10-7-506. Right to copy records; notice of release; additional fees

(a) In all cases where any person has the right to inspect any such public records, such person shall have the right to take extracts or make copies thereof, and to make photographs or photostats of the same while such records are in the possession, custody and control of the lawful custodian thereof or such custodian's authorized deputy; provided, that the lawful custodian of such records shall have the right to adopt and enforce reasonable rules governing the making of such extracts, copies, photographs or photostats.

(b) Within ten (10) days of the release of public records originating in the office of the county assessor of property, the state agency releasing such records shall notify, in writing, the mayor or property of the county in which such records originated of the records released and the name and address of the person or firm receiving the records. The reporting requirements of this subsection shall not apply when county or city summary assessment information is released.

(c) (1) If a request is made for a copy of a public record that has commercial value, and such request requires the reproduction of all or a portion of a computer generated map or other similar geographic data that was developed with public funds, a state department or agency or a political subdivision of the state shall be responsible for the data or system may establish and impose reasonable fees for the reproduction of such record, in addition to any fees or charges that may lawfully be imposed pursuant to this section. The additional fees authorized by this subsection may not be assessed against individuals who request copies of records for themselves or when the record requested does not have commercial value.
